

Largest Increase in Crime in Suburbs

Crime—You Could Be Dead Wrong

By FRANK LAPIERRE
(First of Four Parts)

In the time it takes you to consume a cup of coffee and read this story, there will have been one murder committed in the United States, 20 robberies, 19 aggravated assaults, and two cases of forcible rape.

Not a very nice way to cap off the day, you will agree.

And if you're contentedly sitting in the security of your suburban home and thinking this is happening only in the "big cities," you're wrong. Maybe even dead wrong!

The suburban dwellers' complacency is today being shattered, according to statistics issued by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in its recent Crime in the United States report (1974-75).

The statistics have been compiled by the FBI under the relatively new Uniform Crime Reporting system which reviewed some 210,000 records of persons involved in the nation's 10 top offenses.

This new system channels police reports from participating areas to a central index file maintained by the FBI. An annual report is issued to law enforcement agencies throughout the country.

Statistics on current crime trends show that the largest increase in crime is in the suburbs, away from urban core cities such as San Francisco and Oakland.

"These final figures merely underscore what we already know," Attorney General Edward H. Levi said when the report was issued. "The problem of serious crime is immense."

How immense?

"Serious crime in the country was 18 per cent greater in 1974 than in 1973 — with the largest increase in suburban and rural areas," Levi said.

Law enforcement officials are not surprised by this trend. They believe criminals are "just following the money out of the cities to the suburbs."

Communities such as San Bruno, Daly City and South San Francisco already are suffering this criminal migration.

These cities border San Francisco — a so-called "urban core city."

"As people move out of the large cities to the suburbs, criminals follow."

There also are those criminals who remain in the core urban areas and use freeways to hit and run in suburban areas where they feel safe from police.

To prove this point, the FBI notes that while serious crimes have risen 12 per cent in cities of 250,000 and more inhabitants, suburban and rural areas have registered an increase, in the same type of crimes, of 20 per cent.

With one crime being committed per year for every 20 persons in this country, it is little wonder citizens are becoming increasingly alarmed, law enforcement officials say.

The murder rate registered 8.3 victims for every 100,000 inhabitants in the Western States in 1975 — an increase of six per cent overall.

But in Daly City there was no increase in the murder rate last year.

In 1974, the city investigated eight murders. Last year, the city reported the same number of murders.

One murder, involving two victims, remains unsolved.

DC Attempt to Allay Lincoln Park Fears

The City Council of Daly City, in an effort to allay fears of homeowners in the Lincoln Park area, has restated its policy of not trying to force people into selling their homes to the city.

Mayor Victor Kyriakis last week told this newspaper some people are concerned over stories that attempts were being made to coerce their neighbors into selling their homes to the city.

Some of the stories, according to City Manager David Rowe, are being circulated by real estate salesmen.

"These salesmen are telling property owners they can get a better deal for their homes through their real estate companies, rather than dealing with the city," Rowe explained.

Rowe explained that residents of the city can sell their homes "to whomever they want."

The city manager, supporting Mayor Kyriakis' statements on the subject, said he feels the city can offer property owners a better deal than private real estate agents.

The entire issue has been the subject of several public discussions, most started by Conrad Pavellas, chairman of the Original Daly City Protective Association.

Pavellas has indicated that some people were being forced out of their homes around Lincoln Park by the city, because the city wants the land for its current park expansion project.

Officials have continually denied this.

To illustrate his remarks, Rowe cited eight cases involving the acquisition of property in the affected area — on Acton, Brunswick and Winchester streets.

Unlike private real estate companies, Daly City pays relocation allowances and moving expenses, in addition to replacement housing payments.

The owners of one parcel of property on Brunswick Street received $480 as relocation allowance, plus $9,538.98 in replacement housing payments.

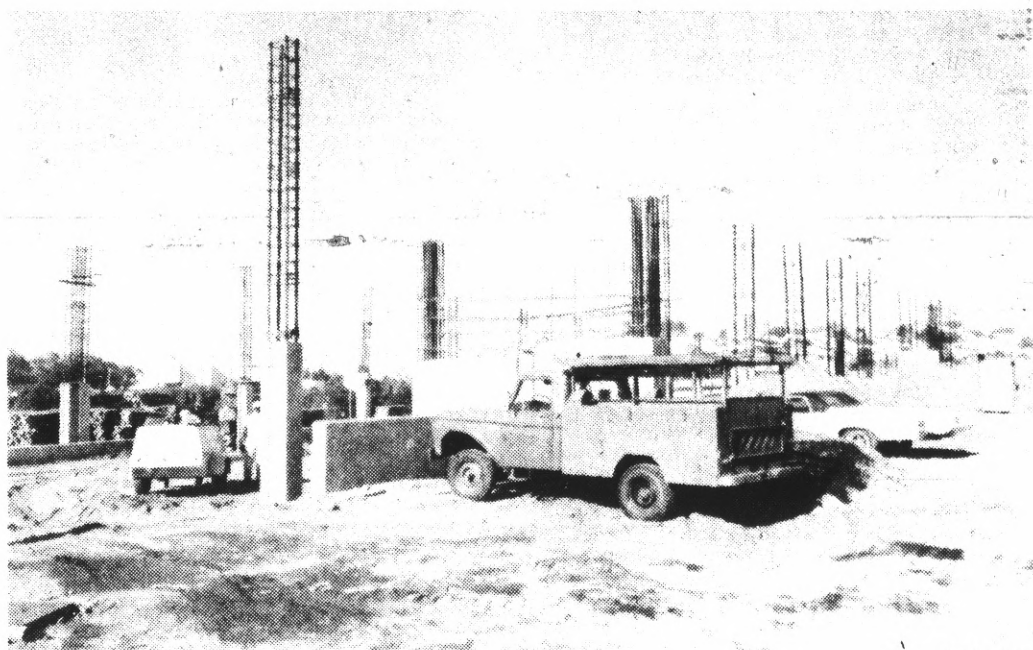

This, in addition to the purchase price of the house and land itself — $38,095.30.

"In other words, this couple was paid $46,114.28," Rowe explained.

There are other cases where the property owner is paid an "interest differential," as in the case of two sisters living on Acton Street.

The pair received an "interest differential" of $6,427.91; supplemental

PARKING GARAGE IN DALY CITY

Steel towers begin to appear on the horizon next to the Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) station in Daly City as workmen push to complete the $6.5 million parking garage designed to accommodate 850 cars. Officials hope the new garage, along with redesigned traffic patterns in the BART area, will alleviate parking problems around the Mission Street-Junipero Serra Boulevard area.

Colma Election Fraud Proceedings Delayed

Court proceedings in the voter fraud indictments against Colma City Councilman Raymond Dominic Ottoboni and his wife, Mae, and their son Raymond John, were delayed Monday at the request of attorneys.

Defense attorneys Zerne P. Haning III and Lois Scampini sought an order from Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo for a "gag" order in the case.

Judge Piombo scheduled March 5 for a hearing on the issue, which would restrict authorities from discussing the cases with newsmen.

But he granted a preliminary order sealing the Grand Jury transcript until at least March 5.

The municipal election in Colma is set for March 2. Among the allegations of the Grand Jury indictment is that Raymond John Ottoboni, 34, a former Colma police chief and council candidate, fraudulently registered four persons to vote in that election.

The judge also set March 5 for the Ottobonis to enter pleas to a number of alleged election code violations.

The Grand Jury accused the Ottobonis of arranging for four persons to pretend that they were living in one of the senior Ottoboni's Colma homes, allegedly for their votes in the March 2 election.

The indictment alleges that the younger Ottoboni, a deputy registrar of voters, registered the persons to vote. None of them actually lived in Colma, according to authorities.

Colma has 211 registered voters. Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson has been quoted as saying that four votes can affect an election outcome in Colma.

Daly City Palmistry Ordinance

Thanks to the City Council in Daly City, citizens there can continue to read their astrological forecasts in the daily newspapers; practice magic within the limits of the law; and, if one possesses valid credentials, hypnotize someone.

But a new ordinance passed in a split vote of the council Monday forbids the practice of augury, cartomancy, clair-audience, clairvoyance, crystal gazing, divination, fortune-telling, graphology, life reading, necromancy, palmistry, phrenology, prophecy or acting as a medium.

Until specifically excluded, by the council Monday Daly Cityites would have theoretically been forbidden to practice magic, use hypnotism in their medical practice (as some physicians do nowadays) and read the daily horoscopes published in local newspapers.

The council had a choice of passing either a regulatory or a prohibitory law on the matter of fortune-telling in Daly City. Monday and chose the latter.

Memorable DC Date Coming Up

Monday, Feb. 23, 1976 might possibly be the most memorable date in the history of Daly City — at least for the next two years.

That was the last time the City Council members all occupied the lofty perches they have sat on together for the past two years.

On March 2 Councilman Paul Hupf will step down from the council.

Councilman Anthony "Tony" Giammona is running for re-election, and who knows? Councilman McRobert "Mac" Stewart has announced he is running for San Mateo County supervisor, for the seat being vacated by Mrs. Jean Fessler.

And councilman William Schumacher has announced he is in the race for the State Senate seat vacated by San Francisco Mayor George Moscone.

Only Mayor Victor Kyriakis knows for certain he will again resume his seat on the council at the next regular meeting.

Northgate Asks Fare Boost of Five Cents

Northgate Transit Co., which operates routes in Daly City, South San Francisco and Colma, wants to raise its rates by five cents.

The company in recent years has been the recipient of vigorous vocal attacks by irate patrons and a target of the Highway Patrol for alleged failure to comply with safety standards on its vehicles.

It now operates on a six-month probationary permit at the request of the Public Utilities Commission staff.

Northgate president Charles D. Lucas, in a statement presented to the PUC Feb. 16 said the company has not had a fare increase since 1974 and costs of operation are skyrocketing.

For example, annual insurance rates have gone from $22,244 in 1972 to $63,717 in 1976, Lucas said.

The council unanimously moved to block the increase, asking City Atty. Albert Polonsky to file formal objections with the PUC immediately.

Lucas said the high cost of operation is depriving Northgate's drivers from "a just and reasonable return on capital and labor devoted to the business."

Many Northgate buses are owner-operated under an umbrella franchise owned by Northgate.

But Polonsky argues he isn't even certain Northgate is a valid corporation since he says no stock has ever been issued in it.

"I've also learned," Polonsky told the City Council Monday, "that the drivers will not get more (money), they will simply be charged more to operate under existing agreements with Northgate."

Northgate falls under the PUC because routes cross county lines.

Several months ago Daly City formally filed a protest against the Northgate operation in the wake of a major dispute which saw most of the bus owner-operators walk off the job, leaving hundreds of Daly City residents stranded.

Meanwhile fledgling San Mateo County Transit District has been negotiating with Northgate in an attempt to phase the company out of existence.

There have thus far been no report of any headway being made in these negotiations.

One section of Lucas' letter brought a scattering of groans and laughs from the audience and some council members attending the Monday session.

It read: "The residents of Daly City envied by the residents of other peninsular communities because of the fact that they enjoyed regular scheduled transit service... at no cost to the taxpayers."

City Manager David Rowe said, "In view of the failure of Northgate to provide adequate services over the past several months, as was concluded in PUC's own hearing (last year), the PUC should be very careful in evaluating (this request) to ensure that if any increase is granted that acceptable levels of service is also provided by Northgate."

Eight Winding Up 'One of Dullest' Campaigns

In one of the dullest campaigns in recent history, eight candidates will be vying for two seats on the City Council in Daly City.

The expected skeletons have been brought out of the political closets, and will, as in the past, be put back following the March 2 municipal elections.

Major topics of discussion during this election include San Bruno Mountain's development and annexation to Daly City; transportation (a dead issue); cable television's poor reception (practically a moot point inasmuch as less than 3000 persons subscribe to it); and, alleged "fiscal irresponsibility."

The latter charge, according to auditor Richard T. Dwyer and Co., is groundless. Dwyer thinks the city is in an unusually solid position financially, and has said so publicly on numerous occasions.

Those running include: Michael R. DeBernardi, 50, owner of the Daly City Radiator and Air Conditioning Company on Mission Street.

DeBernardi is former mayor of the city and was a councilman for 16 years before his defeat at the polls some six years ago.

He is qualified for the job, DeBernardi says, because of his former tenure on the council and his business background.

"In our city, answers to nagging questions of (1) transportation, (2) redevelopment, (3) cable television (4) care of our senior citizens and (5) government fiscal policies and responsibilities have not been forthcoming."

"I feel with my knowledge and business background, I can attack and solve these problems," DeBernardi said, adding "I did it before and I can do it again."

George Ronald Darling, 36, is an insurance account executive who has been in business in both the Daly City and San Francisco areas for many years.

A member of the Daly City Toastmaster's Club and Chairman of the Board of Managers for the Stonestown YMCA, Darling said he is concerned with local matters.

"These associations have given me much insight to the problems and concerns of Daly City. As a Charter Member of the Daly City Junior Chamber of Commerce, I am aware of the past and present needs of the business community," Darling declared.

Anthony A. Giammona, 49, is Westmoor High School Athletic Director and the only incumbent running during the current campaign.

Giammona list of memberships in regional, county and local political and civic organizations is lengthy.

He has been a councilman and former mayor of the city since 1966 and said

"I have served the people faithfully and honestly during my tenure."

"I pledge to continue working to improve the city's tax base as a means of holding the line on property taxes, and to support realistic growth and improvement programs," Giammona said.

"I will also continue to maintain avenues of communication with homeowners' groups, individuals, school districts and government agencies in an effort to provide

Countywide, cases handled by the district attorney's office reveal that the incidence of murder dropped from 38 to 36 cases, while armed robbery rose from 110 to 115, and rape jumped from 23 to 56 cases.

The first three quarters of 1975 registered 14,229 felony and misdemeanor filings handled by Dist. Atty. Keith Sorenson's office.

That is a slight increase over 1974.

Coupled with this rising workload are the length of trials and complexity of many cases now being handled, Sorenson notes.

Charles Bates, special agent in charge of the FBI's San Francisco office, says no one has the answer as to why crime is moving to the suburbs, or why the dramatic increase in serious crimes on a nationwide scale.

"A lot of things have influence on (these trends)," Bates says. "One thing that certainly caused this is the migration from center core cities to the suburbs over the last 20 years."

"Also, new towns have been built and have expanded while police staffings have not kept pace," he says.

responsive, responsible city government to the people."

Peter A. Forrester, 37, is a Daly City pharmacist and a 14-year resident of the city. He said he is vitally concerned with issues facing the city today, including the development of San Bruno Mountain, redevelopment of Mission Street, the BART station area and transportation.

"I believe it is the duty of City Council members to be totally partisan to the best interests of the people who live here, work here and pay taxes here (in Daly City)."

"I will strive to keep decisions of local government focused on local interests. My personal experience assures me that the most effective cure is not necessarily the most expensive prescription, but that common sense will prevent many of the ills for which there is no cure," Forrester said.

James "JJ" Tucker, 31, works for the Juvenile Justice System in San Francisco. He is presently working for a Doctorate in Public Administration at Golden Gate University.

Tucker served in Vietnam with the U.S. Navy and received an honorable discharge in 1966. He has three school-aged children. Because of his family, he says, he is aware of the problems facing those persons raising children.

"My work experience has been primarily in the area of juvenile problems. For the past six years I have worked at the San Francisco Juvenile Court and presently I coordinate a Juvenile Drug Treatment program."

"My membership in various local, state and county organizations has further prepared me to represent (the people). I strongly believe that a councilman must be both responsive and responsible to the needs of the people," Tucker said.

Many communities are seriously lacking in the number of police on hand, Bates adds.

Carmel, for example, is a town of between 4,500 and 5,000 residents.

But in summertime the transient population swells to 10 times that number.

This also is true of Daly City, and San Bruno, where large regional shopping centers attract shoppers — and criminals.

Daly City's police staffing is based on a population of 70,000 inhabitants. But, the actual daily population of the city is more than five times that amount because of two major shopping centers and the Bay Area Rapid Transit station. Chief David Hansen points out.

"Criminals know this (that police are under strength) and with improvements in interstate highways, criminals can move quickly from center core cities to suburban areas."

"You can see this in bank robberies. These criminals are very mobile today. People in small towns used to ask who the stranger in town was. But now citizens pay absolutely no attention because of the number of people moving in and out of town," Bates says.

collection receiver for the San Francisco Municipal Railway Company.

Walsh said his experience has shown him the transportation system in Daly City is in poor shape.

The candidate favors an environmentally sound development on San Bruno Mountain. He said he will demand BART continue its policy of free parking at the Daly City station.

"I am an independent candidate and have attended more council meetings than any other non-incumbent candidate in the last five years," Walsh said. "I listen, I am concerned and I am a person of action."

Richard L. Silver, 27, is Assembly Legislative Assistant to Louis J. Papan. He is currently on leave of absence from that position during the municipal campaign.

Silver is a former Daly City Library Trustee and has resided in the city for the past 22 years.

"As both Library Trustee and assistant to Assemblyman Papan I have gained insight into problems in our community. If elected, I will establish constituent hours at city hall in order to meet the public and increase community input in city government," Silver said.

Law

Councilmen William Schumacher and Paul Hupf, both attorneys, voted against the ordinance, commenting they did not think it would hold up in court.

Earlier the council had instructed City Attorney Albert Polonsky that if the ordinance were passed he should argue the case in the highest court in the land if necessary.

Immediately after the lengthy hearing on the subject — an on-again, off-again issue for several months — attorney William Boyd, representing Jack and Helen Adams of Mission Street, Daly City, said he would take the fortune-telling issue to court.

He charged the council was attempting to interfere with his clients' livelihood and that the law was discriminatory.

Both Mrs. Adams and her husband are gypsies and customarily operate fortune-telling parlors, according to Boyd.

Boyd had argued for weeks that the new law was unconstitutional.

Monday he said neither Jack nor Helen Adams had actually applied for a permit to operate a fortune-telling business in Daly

City "and yet the police ran an exhaustive background check on my client."

He also charged the Daly City police with harassment because an officer came to the Adams' home several days ago, purportedly acting on a complaint filed by an unidentified neighbor that fortune-telling was being conducted on premises.

"My deep concern for the direction the city will be taking together with my broad experience and leadership ability will enable me to contribute further to the betterment of our community."

"As (a) councilman, I pledge to be an independent and responsive representative of all its residents," Teglia said. — F.D.L.

housings costs of $2,493; and, relocation costs of $1,348.58, plus the acquisition costs of $38,192.56.

Here's how the interest differential works:

If the current interest rate for a new house is 10 per cent and the existing loan interest rate on the house being acquired by the city is five per cent, the difference of five per cent is then computed based on the length of time remaining on the loan. The seller is then reimbursed in cash.

"No real estate salesman can make that promise," Rowe said.

Monday that he expects it will take the board two weeks to review the testimony and evidence and come to a decision.

Visitation Associates is seeking board approval of a County Planning Commission recommendation that the county general plan be amended to permit development of the proposed $850 million Crocker Hills community of 7,655 dwelling units for 18,500 persons.

Robert Follett, general manager of Visitation Associates was to give the developer's closing arguments before the board today.

At Monday's hearing, Robert L. Henn, retained by the city of Brisbane to express the community's official opposition to the proposed development, asserted that Visitation Associates paid $12 million for the 1,400 acres it owns on the mountain.

"These are the same people who are demanding $28 million today, less than three years later," the attorney said.

He reiterated that the County Assessor's Office has assessed the market value of the property at $10.7 million.

Henn claimed that the city of Brisbane would have to pay $10.5 million to "subsidize" development of Crocker Hills — half of the estimated $8.8 million school cost, and all of the cost of the estimated $6 million cost to improve Old Bayshore Highway from Geneva Avenue to Randolph Avenue to accommodate increased traffic from the development.

"A vote for the VA plan is a vote to make the citizens of Brisbane pay for their own destruction," Henn claimed.

San Bruno Mountain is all the North County has, Henn said.

"We don't have any redwoods in our back yards, we have no beaches close by," the attorney stated.

"We want to save the mountain, to save it in the open space as we know it now... we don't want Crocker Hills. Crocker Hills is going to destroy Brisbane."

David Keyston, speaking on the other side for the Coalition of Concerned Citizens, asserted that it is "becoming more apparent" that the proposed development will have a "positive impact" on schools, taxes and open space.

Reiterating the coalition's (he said it has 20,000 members) stand on the high rate of unemployment and the need for housing, Keyston noted that the project would provide 20 per cent of its housing for low and middle income residents.

"The issue will come down to the issue of growth versus no-growth," Keyston predicted. "The opponents are people who want the use of other people's land without paying for it."

Keyston said that the development will provide needed warehousing and good office space in the county.

Thomas Hunter, business agent for the Plumbers Union, urging approval of the Visitation proposal, said, "the working people, the young people are being forced out of the county for lack of housing."

Thomas Adams, a Legal Aid Society attorney representing the Committee to Save San Bruno Mountain, urged that the general plan amendment be returned to the Planning Commission for development of the

San Mateo County Supervisors End Hearings on San Bruno Mountain

By BOB HEMINGWAY
The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors heard final testimony yesterday to wind up its series of public hearings on the proposed community development for San Bruno Mountain.

Board Chairman William H. Royer said at the conclusion of a special meeting on the mountain matter

Monday that he expects it will take the board two weeks to review the testimony and evidence and come to a decision.

Visitation Associates is seeking board approval of a County Planning Commission recommendation that the county general plan be amended to permit development of the proposed $850 million Crocker Hills community of 7,655 dwelling units for 18,500 persons.

Thomas Adams, a Legal Aid Society attorney representing the Committee to Save San Bruno Mountain, urged that the general plan amendment be returned to the Planning Commission for development of the managed open space proposal advocated by proponents seeking to preserve the mountain.

He said that development of the Visitation plan would consume 75 per cent of the useable land on San Bruno Mountain and mean that North County residents will never be able to have an adequate amount of open space.

Adams also claimed that development at the density and scale proposed by Visitation Associates is not likely to be economically successful and 60 to 80 per cent of the residents of the project would come from outside the county.

County Studies Reorganization

A reorganization proposal covering many county government functions and programs will be submitted to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors by April 1, County Manager M. D. Tarshes informed the board Tuesday.

Tarshes made the revelation in requesting the board to defer action on his proposal of last September to change the name of the Planning Department to Planning and Community Development.

The board agreed to the request and also to the recommendation that it reaffirm its decision to include in the Planning Department the responsibility for administration of the Housing and Community Development Act (HCDA) program, "at least until a more general reorganization plan is adopted."

The proposal by Tarshes to consolidate housing, urban renewal and administration of the HCDA program in the Planning Department has been considered by the board on several occasions, but it has deferred a decision, asking Tarshes to submit recommendations for a broader, more comprehensive reorganization of county activities.

"My understanding of your main motivation is the rapid increase in complexity and volume of business in recent years which has compounded the problems related to span of control, communication and coordination," Tarshes told the board Tuesday.

"I share your concern about the adequacy of our present organization, even with its many competent people, to cope effectively with these problems," he said. "The development of a general reorganization proposal has therefore been one of my top priority efforts in recent months, although it has been sidetracked from time to time by other crucial day-to-day problems, such as labor relations," the manager stated.

John Dern, chairman of the Citizens Task Force studying efficiency of county governmental operations, said that the committee is "much concerned" about reorganization.

"All hands (such as department heads) must be heard, not only the Task Force," he commented.

In requesting the board to reaffirm its decision to include administration of the HCDA program in the Planning Department, Tarshes said the program continues to operate with bifurcated management through the Redevelopment Agency for the East Palo Alto portion of the program and the Planning Department for the program in the remainder of the county.

The board took a step to correct that situation by approving a recommendation of Tarshes that a new executive director of the Redevelopment Agency to succeed Lou Osibin (who has resigned effective Feb. 29) be hired in the Planning Department "with the clear responsibility to direct redevelopment and HCDA related activities countywide."

"It is essential to reaffirm Planning Department responsibility (for HCDA programs)," Tarshes said.

The board accepted the proposal that the East Palo Alto Municipal Council be consulted in the hiring of a new executive director.

JESD Free, Reduced Meal And Milk Policy Outlined

The Jefferson Elementary School District has announced that there is a free meal and free milk and reduced price meal policy for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served in schools under the National School Lunch and Special Milk Programs.

Family size income criteria has been adopted for use in determining eligibility, according to Nellie B. True, food services director.

Free Meals and Free Milk

Family Sz.

Mo. Gross Income

|---|---------------|
| 1 | $ 0 to $269 |
| 2 | 0 to $353 |
| 3 | 0 to $438 |
| 4 | 0 to $522 |
| 5 | 0 to $599 |
| 6 | 0 to $696 |
| 7 | 0 to $746 |
| 8 | 0 to $816 |
| 6 | 0 to $876 |

Reduced Price Meals

Family Sz.

Mo. Gross Income

|---|-----------------|
| 1 | $270 to $419 |
| 2 | $354 to $ 551 |
| 3 | $439 to $ 683 |
| 4 | $523 to $ 814 |
| 5 | $600 to $ 934 |
| 6 | $677 to $1055 |
| 7 | $747 to $1164 |
| 8 | $817 to $1272 |

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for the free milk and meals and reduced priced meals. In addition, families not meeting this criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Foster children also are eligible in some cases. A family with such children living with them that wishes to apply should contact the school.

Conservatory of Music Offers Cello Course

The San Francisco Conservatory of Music will offer an extension course in Cello Pedagogy with instructors Margaret Rowell and Irene Sharp Thursdays from Feb. 26 through April 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the Conservatory.

This course is designed for those teaching the cello and will cover the basic principles of cello playing, including demonstrations by young children. Both Rowell and Sharp have taught cello pedagogy courses at the University of Wisconsin and in England, as well as in the Bay Area.

Shoe Repair Shop Robbed

Two gunmen held up Dorothy's Shoe Repair, 7377 Mission St., Daly City, about 6 p.m. last Wednesday, and fled after taking some $350 in cash, two diamond rings and a wristwatch.

The unidentified victim told police one of the men was armed with a .38-caliber handgun.

The pair used a gray Dodge sedan to make their escape.

Steak and Enchiladas $3.95 Wednesday night.

Something very special is happening on Wednesday night at the Boar's Head Restaurant.

Steak and enchiladas. For only $3.95, you get a juicy steak, two cheese enchiladas, salad and coffee, tea or milk.

The steak is choice top sirloin, and the enchiladas are superbly made in the Mexican manner.

Drop into the Boar's Head Restaurant on Wednesday night. We think you'll agree that this is the best dinner deal in town. In fact, we'll stake our enchiladas on it.

15 File for June Election

A total of 15 prospective candidates for public office in the June 8 primary election obtained nomination papers from San Mateo County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church this week in Redwood City.

The filing period for the primary extends through March 12 at 5 p.m.

Congressman Leo Ryan, D-San Mateo, who is seeking re-election to his 11th District post, obtained his papers. Also taking out their nomination papers for the 11th Congressional District were Robert Jones, Republican, and Nicholas Kudrozeff, American Independent Party.

Others taking out papers and the positions they are seeking are:

Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, 20th Assembly District.

Judge Roy W. Seagraves, Lewis Moore, Harold F.

Francis, all Southern District Municipal Court Dept. 1.

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, Richard Griffith, First District; Fred Lyon, Fifth District; and Supervisor William H. Royer, Fourth District, County Board of Supervisors.

Joseph W. Kerska, 19th Assembly District, American Independent Party.

Joseph Gooney, 12th Congressional District, American Independent Party.

Superior Court Judge Lyle R. Edson, Office No. 1; Superior Court Judge Robert Carey, Office No. 3, Superior Court.

Lawyer Fees Challenged

A group of Foster City attorneys has retained a San Mateo attorney to investigate legal fees charged by Foster City's litigation attorney Wayne A. McFadden.

"Foster City has paid to a litigation attorney Wayne A. McFadden nearly $130,000 during the calendar year 1975," said attorney William Rapoport. "Accordingly, I have been asked to investigate, statistically and for value received, this extraordinarily high amount."

Rapoport has been retained to do the investigation by a half dozen Foster City attorneys, according to Dick Bennett, one of the local attorneys involved.

Bennett said the group of Foster City lawyers purposely retained an attorney from outside Foster City to do the investigation. "We are trying to bring in someone who does not have an ax to grind (in Foster City)," Bennett said.

Nevertheless, Rapoport said he and the group he represents "feel that prior to the election (three Foster City Council seats will be filled at the March 2 election) we must take a public stand, asking each of the nine candidates to study with us the billings of the individual cases involved and to take a position as to whether or not this is a proper or necessary expenditure of funds within the city of Foster City."

4 Pick Up Petitions In Sixth Senate Race

Four prospective candidates for the Sixth State Senatorial District seat in the May 11 special election have obtained petitions in lieu of filing fees from the office of San Mateo County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church.

Wednesday was the first day in which to obtain the petitions. A new state law permits the filing of petitions bearing 3,000 signatures of registered voters in the district in lieu of paying the $211.20 filing fee.

Taking out the petitions were Robert St. Clair of Millbrae, Democrat, a former member of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors; Gale F. Driesbach of South San Francisco, Republican, former South San Francisco city manager; Jane Powell of Daly City, Democrat, a trustee of the Jefferson Union High School District; and Guy Caputo of Millbrae, American Independent Party.

The period for obtaining and filing of nomination papers for the special election to fill the unexpired term of George Moscone, who resigned after being elected mayor of San Francisco, begins March 18 and extends through March 26 at 5 p.m. The Senate term extends through 1980.

The Sixth Senatorial District comprises northern San Mateo County and a portion of San Francisco County.

Supervisors Fill Board Vacancies

The appointment of a total of eight persons to the San Mateo County Mental Health Advisory Board, the Human Relations Commission and the Regional Planning Committee to fill existing vacancies has been made by the Board of Supervisors.

Foster City Police Chief John Norton was appointed Tuesday to the Human Relations Commission to replace Police Chief Mel Nelson of Pacifica, who resigned last fall.

Mrs. Marian Grayson of East Palo Alto was named to the Regional Planning Committee to replace Mrs. Lore Radisch, who recently was appointed to the County Planning Commission.

Appointed to the Mental Health Advisory Board were Harold Dickman of Menlo Park, director of psychological services, Palo Alto Veterans Hospital; Robert Lydon of Redwood City, coordinator of nursing, Agnews State Hospital; Stuart L. Scott of Moss Beach, a federal probation officer; Arden Weinberg of Hillsborough, an attorney and social worker; and Dr. Piero J. Cerruti of San Mateo, a psychiatrist.

Dorothy Zietz of Moss Beach, a retired social work professor at California State University at Sacramento, was appointed an alternate to Supervisor John M. Ward as liaison from the Board of Supervisors to the Mental Health Advisory Board, the first time such an appointment has been made.

Violence Cited At TV Strike Site

Violence broke out twice in the long running strike against the Peninsula Cable Television Corp., 894 Industrial Road, San Carlos, Wednesday, with one picket arrested by the company manager and a charge by the union member later that a company employee had run him down with his car, police reported today.

According to Officer Gary A. Prince, picket Ronald D. Gonzales, 24, a bench technician, of San Mateo, was arrested by the company manager, Bobby Lee Williams, for trespassing after Williams said Gonzales had refused to leave the company parking lot about 8:30 a.m.

Gonzales was booked at the county jail after Williams made a citizen's arrest on him, Officer Prince said.

At about 5:10 p.m., Gonzales told Officer Bernard E. Lightner, he was picketing in a parking strip near the curb when a company employee, Thomas M. Fruhmman, 24, of Redwood City, drove his car directly at him and knocked him to the ground although he attempted to jump out of the way.

Another picket, Russ Hayes of Pacifica, said he jumped on the bumper of Fruhmman's vehicle when he kept on going and pounded on the rear window but had to jump off when Fruhmman turned right on Commercial Avenue.

Fruhmman complained he stopped his car first, but three pickets, including Gonzales and Hayes, jumped on his auto, began pounding on it and shouting at him. He denied running Gonzales down.

Tuesday Hayes accused two company employees, Fruhmman and Terry Taylor, 27, of Millbrae, of assaulting him and grabbing his picket sign, bruising his face. Both men denied the accusation.

Fitzgerald Will Seek Re-election

San Mateo County Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald has formally announced that he will seek re-election for a fifth term to his First District seat on the board.

Fitzgerald, originally elected to the board in 1960, was one of 15 candidates for various offices in the June 8 primary election who obtained nomination papers Tuesday from the office of County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church.

Fitzgerald said he intends to continue his policy of fiscal responsibility if returned to office.

"I feel the first priority of county government is to protect the people against runaway costs of government," the supervisor said.

Fitzgerald noted that he has served on a number of regional agencies and that he is the only county supervisor in the United States to have served on the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's 208-member Advisory Committee on Clean Water.

Special Teacher Training OK'd

By JANET PARKER

A program to train teachers to handle the needs of students with special problems in the regular classroom was approved by the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees Wednesday.

It took more than an hour by those who proposed the program to convince the board the program would benefit students and teachers.

In recent months some trustees have objected to many applications for federal funding and other special programs that JESD administrators have sought.

In this program the San Francisco State University Special Education Department will work with volunteer teachers at Colma at least until June and possibly through 1978.

Colma school was selected because special education students there already are "mainstreamed" or integrated into the regular classrooms and are pulled out at varying times during the day to work on special needs.

"I am becoming somewhat fearful that the Jefferson School District is becoming a laboratory or testing ground for pilot programs," Trustee Beverly Forrester said.

She said she'd like to see other districts involved in some pilot programs.

Although other trustees listened to the debate, Mrs. Forrester said after the unanimous board vote of approval that the SFSU project had three board votes against it at the start.

Dr. John Lynch of the SFSU Special Education Department said there is no intent to change the existing Colma program.

"We don't intend to impose experimental situations on this district," Lynch said.

The aim of the project, he said, is to determine the kinds of knowledge and skills that better equip regular classroom teachers whether they teach in districts like JESD or rich ones like the Beverly Hills School District.

Barbara Hemp, Colma School principal, said that special education students are mixed with average students in the classroom already "and teachers are having to deal with that."

When Vista Grande School closed, many students with learning disabilities were transferred to Colma Elementary, the SFSU project report notes.

Children at Colma who were receiving special help prior to the transfers no longer get it.

"In addition many requests from parents for special education services for their children must go unmet," the report states.

With more of these students in the regular classrooms teachers aren't always prepared to handle their needs, the project proposal states.

The project itself is titled "Preparing Teachers for Mainstream Special Education." Mainstreaming refers to assigning exceptional students to regular classes and providing appropriate education for them.

Mainstreamed students at Colma spend half the day in the regular classroom and will continue to do so under this program.

One parent, Arlene Pleich, PTA Council president, explained her dissatisfaction with what Colma students now are offered.

She said her own daughter was receiving help for learning disabilities before the transfer of students from Vista Grande.

Colma School took the burden of those students in the district's effort to save money by closing a school but the Colma children are being deprived in the long run, she said.

"It's not just my daughter, it's all those kids," Mrs. Pleich said. "We need something. It's not fair."

The district, she said, should be able to add just one special education teacher at Colma with money saved by closing a school.

Supt. Herbert Hemington said this problem is just one example of many problems the district faces.

"We do need more special kinds of help for children we serve," Hemington said. "But it's going to take extra funds."

Mrs. Forrester said if she had known what the effect of closing Vista Grande on students with special needs at Colma would be, "I would not have voted to close that school."

Lynch said the program will begin at Colma immediately.

Plans for this semester call for inservice training, a university course for volunteer teachers and monthly meetings at Colma to plan activities for resource and media development.

The program will be evaluated in the summer with plans for further training in the fall.

Help Wanted

Orientation and training sessions have been listed with the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

SUICIDE PREVENTION — The next volunteer training class begins March 6.

PARENTAL STRESS — The first sessions for this prevention program on child abuse begins March 15.

WOMEN AGAINST RAPE — An orientation will be given for new volunteers when enough interested people apply.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD — A training and orientation session for volunteers to work as interviewers in a clinic setting is scheduled for Feb. 25 and 26. Prospective volunteers will have an intake interview set up by appointment prior to the training. Clerical help is also requested.

ROBINSON CENTER — Help with sing-alongs at this center which provides the music and a pianist for all the seniors in the community.

SAN MATEO RECREATION DEPARTMENT — Grandmothers for children in pre-school classes. A receptionist between 9 a.m. and noon on Mondays and Thursdays.

PENINSULA ASSOCIATION FOR RETARDED CHILDREN AND ADULTS — Volunteers to help with the ninth annual Special Olympics for the retarded which will take place on April 24 at Mills High School. Two hundred sixty-two children and young adults are registered for the event, and volunteers will assist them by running and scoring events, acting as guides, providing refreshments and setting up for the parade and awards assembly.

Additional information about these and other opportunities can be obtained by contacting the Volunteer Bureau at 119 Primrose Road, Burlingame. The bureau is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. It is a project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County and shares in the United Way of the Bay Area. The bureau is also funded, in part, by the county of San Mateo.

Late Signup Penalties Set

If you missed the Feb. 6 deadline for registering your vehicle, you now face the possibility of a 10 per cent penalty charge added to what your registration fee should have been, the California Department of Motor Vehicles says.

Maybe you felt it was worth it to avoid the long last-minute lines that developed at some California Department of Motor Vehicles offices.

After March 8 you may change your mind. Following that date, the 10 per cent penalty climbs to a whopping 50 per cent penalty.

DMV Director Herman Sillas urges delinquent motorists to pay their fees and penalties now to receive the month and year stickers to affix to their vehicle's rear license plate.

Whether prompted by penalty fears or the prospect of volunteer entertainment in the DMV lines, an estimated 12,900,000 of a potential 14,900,000 registration renewals were processed at DMV's 147 offices statewide by the registration deadline of Feb. 6. The 1975 total by the deadline was some 12,600,000 of a potential 14,491,000.

According to Registrar R.O.M. Phillips, an estimated 2 per cent of the potential vehicle registration renewals are penalized each year for delinquency.

That would put the number penalized at approximately 300,000 this year. He added that many potential renewals are not made each year because vehicles leave the state, are placed in storage, or are scrapped.

California motorists should not have to face long year-end lines hereafter, the Department of Motor Vehicles has implemented a system of year-round registration, with approximately 1.2 million vehicles to be registered each month.

Initial registration periods under the new system will fall between July of 1976 and June of 1977, depending on the license plate letter and number combinations. Motorists will be reminded 30 days in advance of when their next registration is due.

Under the new program, however, all future payment penalties will be the flat 50 per cent.

California is the 18th state in the nation to establish some form of staggered registration, according to Phillips.

Senior troop 24 meets on Monday evenings at Broadmoor Presbyterian Church and Mariner Ship 13 meets in the home of its leader Mrs. Margaret Damon.

Water Plan Study OKd

San Mateo County Engineer S. H. Cantwell was authorized by the Board of Supervisors Tuesday to negotiate for consultant services to develop a community water plan for the water-starved town of Pescadero.

The Department of Health and Welfare expressed concern last summer over increasing health problems resulting from contaminated wells in the Pescadero area.

Board Chairman William H. Royer said he had consulted with Supervisor Jean Fassler and that she is satisfied with terms of the proposal. Mrs. Fassler, who still is sidelined with a back ailment, had requested last week that the matter be continued.

She had expressed concern that the contract not be signed until an attitude survey of Pescadero residents is completed, that the water plan include agricultural uses and that the ad hoc citizens committee participating in the plan development include the chairman of the Peninsula Water Agency.

County Planning Director Donald A. Woolfe said the search for a water source for Pescadero can be effectively combined with that for a water supply for the proposed farm labor housing development in the South Coastside area.

However, he added, the water sources may not necessarily be the same for both. He noted that the Housing and Community Development Act, under which the farm labor housing will be developed, requires that any water-sewer plan for housing must be linked to the community.

Cantwell estimated the cost of the program to examine water needs and source availability will be between $20,000 and $30,000.

San Bruno Planners

Two-Story Savings Building Approved

The San Bruno Planning Commission last Tuesday night approved architectural plans for a two-story savings and loan association regional office at the corner of El Camino Real and Sneath Lane.

The only commissioner to oppose the plan was Leon Miller, who noted that the environmental impact report on the development indicated it would cost the city more money in services than would be made up in tax revenue.

Miller said the financial section of the EIR showed that if the office was allowed to be built the net loss to the city would be $915 the first year.

He pointed out that the EIR showed the project would bring $3,654 in new property tax and building permit fee revenue to the city, but that it would cost the city $4,569 to provide city services to the project, including police and fire protection and utilities.

"It seems to me we are being asked to allow this building which will result in a deficit to the city," said Miller.

"I don't see how we can sit here and ask the citizens of this city to subsidize a private enterprise and thus I don't see how we can approve this project."

Commissioner Robin Nowinski responded "The cost of city services and the gathering of city revenue through taxes are beyond the control of this commission and the applicant."

"We are not here to talk about taxes; that's the job of the tax assessor. How can we say now to this applicant it just occurred to us that you guys are going to be costing us money and we can't allow the project. I don't think we can do that," Nowinski said.

Miller asked a representative of American Savings if he knew the figures in the EIR to be correct and the representative replied that to his knowledge they were accurate.

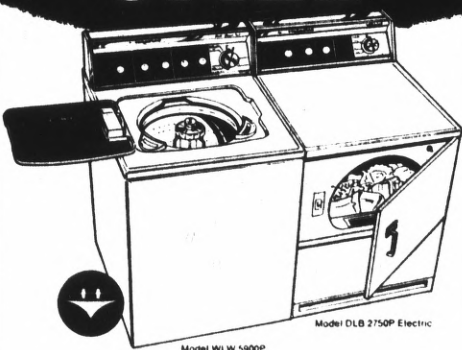

However, Fred Allen, an engineer for the Tri-State Engineering Co., which prepared the greater part of the EIR, told The Times last week that the figures were based on "assumptions" that were not entirely true.

Allen said the financial section of the EIR was prepared by the Environmental Planning Institute of Sausalito, which, he said, took an impractical approach to figuring the cost and revenue factors of the development.

He said that EPI did not take into account that utilities already had been installed for the regional office project and added in the cost of installing utilities.

"I'm not an economist," Allen said, "but it is my belief that city revenue generated from this project would only be reduced by the cost of sending out the bills to collect the revenue."

St. Patrick's Day favors will be the project for Friday when members of Mary's Help Hospital Guild assemble for board meetings, workshops and a general business session.

Mrs. Virginia Hupf will be in charge of the favor making workshop which will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the solarium. Mrs. Virginia Stanghellini, the guild president, will preside at the board meeting at the same hour in the hospital's board room.

The luncheon and general meeting will be at 12:30 p.m. in the solarium with reports on the upcoming games luncheon and the recent meeting of California Hospital Association for Volunteers.

Mrs. Lillian Bertucci will report on preparations for the March 17 Bingo-lasagne luncheon, which will be held in the Westlake Community Center meeting room in Daly City.

Reservations are available, and anyone wishing to attend is asked to mail checks, payable to Mary's Help Hospital Guild, to Mrs. Bertucci, 185 B St., Colma.

Tickets are $4 a person and guests will be served a lasagne luncheon, to be followed by games and prizes. A no-host champagne hour will begin at 11:30 a.m.

TOMORROW MORNING at 10, members and friends of the Friends of the Daly City Library will gather in the Community Cultural Room of the Serramonte Branch of the library to hear San Mateo City Librarian Alfred Kraig discuss science fiction.

Kraig will review the contemporary works of Isaac Asimov, author of more than 100 science fiction books.

Mrs. Wayne Jarvis and members of the hospitality committee will serve coffee to guests at 10 a.m. Following the review, a no-host luncheon honoring Kraig will be held in the New Southern Restaurant in South San Francisco. Mrs. Joseph Canada will be accepting reservations for the luncheon throughout the morning.

ARE YOU A BARGAIN hunter? Mrs. Robert Brizuela, publicity chairman for the Westlake Catholic Women, reminds residents looking for real bargains of the Our Lady of Mercy rummage sale Friday and Saturday in the parish hall, Elmwood Drive in Westlake.

The sale will be held between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. both days.

SSF Deletes Two Top City Positions

By JANET PARKER

South San Francisco City Planner David Hale and Director of Finance Stanley Bara have been told they no longer will be employed by the city after June 30.

Notices were delivered to Hale and Bara last week after the City Council voted in personnel session to delete the two positions from the 1976-77 budget proposal.

Council members said there were no plans to make the cutbacks public until the formal budget was presented to the council by City Manager Ed Alario on May 21.

The deletion of the two positions according to Alario, saves the city $70,000.

Alario and City Council members project there are more cutbacks to come.

"I don't know that these two will be enough," Alario said.

There's no way the council can get around deleting more positions from the 1976-77 budget, he said.

"We had to see what positions could actually be done away with having the least adverse effect on city services," Alario said.

Mayor Richard Battaglia also said there "may be other positions we will be looking at."

That 1976-77, will be a difficult year in city finances is not news to the city or the council.

In a public hearing Jan. 26 to receive public opinion before drawing up the 1976-77 budget, Alario and Director of Public Services Frank Addiego both projected a difficult year in making the budget balance.

Ironically, it was Bara who clearly defined the situation.

"It's going to be a difficult year, any way we slice it," Bara had said.

Alario, who was finance director before Bara was hired two years ago, said the council decided he would have to "double up" and take on some of his former responsibilities.

The finance director, Alario said, has been a necessity for the city the last few years while budget system and payroll methods were being computerized.

Changes in that department, Alario said, are now caught up.

As for the city planner, Alario said building applications are slow at this time.

Addiego and Zoning Administrator William Costanzo will assume Hale's advisory duties to the Planning Commission.

Councilmen said the cutbacks are something the council has been considering for a long time.

Battaglia said the council's decision actually is a recommendation.

Three council seats expire March 2 and at least one new council member will be elected, since Frank Mammimi is not seeking re-election.

The new City Council will be responsible for adopting the city's 1976-77 budget, Battaglia said.

The new council conceivably could reinstate the positions this council has said it will delete.

In the meantime, however, both Hale and Bara will be looking for new jobs.

Councilman Terry Mirri said the community has been making it known loud and clear that they want the council to put more money into services that directly affect the public.

"The overall intent is the reduction of bureaucracy, which is something citizens have been asking for," Mirri said.

Administrative convenience, he said, is something the city cannot afford at this time.

"Finally, the top administrator of the city, as well as the council, has seemingly understood these reductions are necessary," Mirri said.

Originally, Alario had proposed to the Council that the administration simply be reorganized.

The 1976-77 budget manual submitted to the councilmen earlier this year established a Community Development Department.

That would have allowed splitting the Public Services Department in half, with public works, engineering and sanitation under the old department, and planning, zoning and building inspection under Hale as community development director.

Alario said the reshuffling of city administrators would have more evenly divided the responsibilities of Addiego and Hale.

The Community Development Department, on paper, was a good concept and is used in many other cities, Alario said.

But the council decided a money-saving measure was more appropriate.

Alario said if there are any further cutbacks, they probably will not be in areas such as police and fire, but in services not essential on a day-to-day basis.

However, he said, he has told staff not to request new employees.

The only new employee, he said, will be a sewage treatment plant officer, since the city must fill that position to receive federal money to operate the plant.

Alario said specific administrative changes have been discussed by council during the last four months.

SSF Pilot Juvenile Law Defeats Killed in Self, Author Claims T-38 Crash

Second Lieutenant Edwin (Mike) Gerdes, 33, formerly of South San Francisco, died Feb. 16 in the crash of a T-38 airplane. Originally from Nebraska, he was stationed at Oklahoma's Vance Air Force Base.

He was a graduate of El Camino High School in South San Francisco and San Francisco State University. A member of the ROTC in college and a Sea Scout until the age of 18, he was to have received his wings and 1st Lieutenant rating after nine more flights.

He is survived by his wife Irene; his parents Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. and Lorraine Gerdes of Anaheim; two brothers, Kenneth and Mark of Daly City; and a sister, Patricia Gerdes, also of Daly City.

Funeral services were at 11 a.m. Feb. 21 at the San Bruno Funeral Home with interment at the Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

By VERN KROGH

The law in this nation, especially as it relates to juvenile offenders, has come to the point it defeats its own function.

That is the feeling of Joe Sorrentino, former judge pro-tem of the Los Angeles Municipal Court and from 1973 to 1975 a juvenile court judge, who addressed the Sales and Marketing Executives Association of San Francisco Wednesday night at the Masonic Auditorium in San Francisco.

Sorrentino's credentials for making such a charge are impeccable.

As a youth he was a gang leader in a New York ghetto, and by the time he was 16 he had been busted for felonious assault. He has served time in the Raymond Street Jail, in a padded cell for incorrigibles at Parris Island and in a Marine Corps brig. He received a bad discharge from the Marines.

By any criterion he was a dropout from society.

Yet, some 10 years later he was class valedictorian at the Harvard Law School.

JOE SORRENTINO
Former judge

FROM DROPOUT
To Valedictorian

His address received praise from Henry Kissinger and was an inspiration to dropouts throughout the nation. He had graduated magna cum laude and was student body president at the University of California.

Why this metamorphosis?

He had returned to high school at night and had "fallen in love with education."

Part of the problem now, he says, is "that a kid wants instant stardom."

The blame for this he partially lays at the feet of the media — especially TV and motion pictures — "which pollute the youthful environment in the ghetto with their over-macho emphasis, the Broadway Joe type of life. They glamorize this too much. The neighborhood environment is so affected that many of our children have never exploited the potential they have."

But, according to Sorrentino, the blame cannot be laid to any one segment of society.

Beverly Hills High School, for example, where the students have their own cars, provides crafts and shop classes.

"But in Watts, they cannot even provide the basic skills."

He believes the solution to this is in better political leadership.

While the problem is mainly one of the ghetto, it is a middle-class one as well, according to Sorrentino, the son of a first-generation street sweeper.

He points out members of the Manson Family all came from middle-class but broken homes.

The crises such as Watergate, the Agnew hypocrisy, the specialized treatment of Patty Hearst, all make their attitude toward the law more cynical, Sorrentino emphasizes.

"It is possible that society has civilized due process to where it has become a burden rather than a protection."

He points to the years Carol Chessman spent in prison until the state took his life.

"This system has reached the point where due process cannot operate to the degree it has."

But there are alternatives.

"We know we cannot equalize the system completely — it has been too harsh in the past."

"Patty doesn't bother me as much as Agnew, who walked out, free, on plea bargaining."

"Infinite motions cannot be made when the crime rate has reached the point it has. We must remove some things surgically, but very carefully, not as Thomas Moore suggested, 'Cut down all the trees to get at the rogue.'"

Airports Land Use Plan Nears

Steps toward a completed plan for land use around San Mateo County's two general aviation airports will be taken March 2 at a meeting of the County Board of Supervisors and the Airports Land Use Committee.

It is time for the ALUC to adopt a final plan, which would give property owners near the two small plane airfields realistic information on whether their land can be used, according to ALUC Chairman A. "Tony" Governale, of San Bruno.

He and other members of the ALUC indicated they are ready to proceed with completing their airport land use plan, as soon as the County Supervisors adopt an airport master plan.

Supervisor Edward Bacciochio revealed one tendency in the county's thinking when he said Henry Tarratt, superintendent of building, construction and general services, "is contemplating purchasing" parcels of land in the safety zones at each end of Half Moon Bay airport.

These purchases would allow establishment of "clear zones," 1,500 feet wide and 3,400 feet long, at each end of the 5,000-foot runway.

The purchases also would wipe out private ownership between the south end of the airfield and Princeton Harbor, and take most of the residential area north of the airport to Moss Beach.

Airport Land Use Committee members said property owners around the airport have been waiting two years for ALUC to reach a final land use plan that will tell them how they can use their land. ALUC is unable to complete its plan, members said, until the county adopts a master plan that will determine airport growth.

County supervisors have received a master plan study report, and have accepted parts of it, without determining the overall county master plan.

Meanwhile, ALUC has adopted a modified version of the noise contour plan related to Half Moon Bay airport.

The new plan reduces the area supposedly impacted by aircraft noise, and would permit homes to be built in some areas where they formerly were forbidden.

The noise lines may shrink even more when final plans are adopted, aides suggested.

Family Tells Housing Need

A San Mateo woman has turned to the South San Francisco Information and Referral Center and as a last resort, to the newspaper to find a home for herself, her husband and three children.

It's the second time in recent months that a family has been stranded and the information center has provided them with motel accommodations for a week while public pleas for housing are made.

Mrs. Gloria Hurtado said she has exhausted all county housing resources and agencies, and that no other alternatives exist.

Mrs. Hurtado, 27, said she and her husband were unable to meet the payments at their apartment on 39th Avenue in San Mateo and were evicted last week.

Her husband, Harry, 29, was self-employed truck driver before he underwent surgery at Chope Community Hospital in San Mateo Wednesday.

Mrs. Hurtado does not work outside of the home because she says she needs to be home with her three children — 9, 5 and 2 years old.

The South San Francisco center made special arrangements with a San Mateo motel, allowing the Hurtados to stay there one week, until yesterday, at a reduced rate. The bill is paid by the center.

After Tuesday, however, the Hurtados will be homeless and the South San Francisco center can't afford to pay motel bills any longer.

Ms. Hurtado also said she contacted the county Housing Authority but was told she couldn't even have an appointment until March 17, and even is no guarantee she will be eligible for Housing Authority funds.

Beu Ross, the center's assistant social planner, said the case of the Hurtados is one which comes up occasionally.

Most landlords, he said, want first and last month's rent as well as a deposit when a family moves in. Some families, such as the Hurtados, just don't have that kind of money.

Other landlords aren't willing to take a family with three children.

In a similar case a month ago, a South San Francisco woman and her four children finally found a home in San Mateo after newspaper articles reported her plight.

Landlords who may have a home for the Hurtados should call Ben Ross at the South San Francisco Information and Referral Center.

Food Program: No Senior Will Be Turned Away—Ross

Although the Senior Citizen Food Program in San Mateo County is operating above capacity, "no senior will be turned away."

Jack Ross, chairman of the food program, informed the County Economic Opportunity Commission Thursday night that despite the increased number of meals served, the program has been able to stay within its budget so far.

Ross also expressed some mystification as to why San Mateo County's food program has been held at the same level. He noted that a Los Angeles location which had been serving 150 meals a day to senior citizens suddenly received funding for 400 meals.

Ross reported that he is trying to raise private funds for additional food.

Also, he said, he is going to the city councils in cities where there are senior citizen food programs — South San Francisco, Daly City, San Mateo, Redwood City and East Palo Alto — to try and secure council financing of the salaries of directors at the food serving centers. Thus, he said, the money used for salaries from the program budget could be used to buy additional food and feed more people.

Ross said that about 500 meals a day, five days a week, are being served at the San Mateo County locations at a cost of $370,000 a year.

The food chairman said that a 35-cent donation is suggested for each meal, with a box being provided for diners to contribute whatever they can afford.

At the first of the month, almost everyone contributes, Ross said, "but the last week, that's hell."

Jorge Hassmer, head of the EOC weatherization program, reported that the EOC has received an additional grant for weatherization or insulation of 100 homes of poor and near-poor residents in the county.

Hassmer said 45 applications have been received to date for weatherization. The program will begin March 1, he added.

Hassmer said that $25,000 has been received for materials and $49,000 to pay the labor costs of four installers.

Although San Mateo County is a leader in the state in the weatherization program, there still are some 9,300 dwellings in the target area needing weatherization, according to an EOC report to the Community Services Administration in Washington, D.C.

No Gregorio Newsletter

More than $1 of every $10 spent maintaining state senators in 1975 was used to pay for newsletters to constituents, a first-ever accounting published Tuesday in the Senate Journal shows.

Missing from the list was San Mateo's State Sen. Arlen Gregorio. Gregorio was one of only seven senators who listed no newsletter expenses.

Newsletters are a perpetual controversy for senators, according to United Press International. The senators are allowed 15 cents per registered voter in their districts for newsletters. Each mailing, by rule, must be at least six months apart.

The procedure has been criticized as self-serving and giving the incumbent a taxpayer-financed advantage during election years. It has been defended as a legitimate way of communicating with constituents.

Senators spent a total of $815,834 on newsletters.

Bill to Limit BART Dies in Committee

A bill (SB 879) to severely limit BART extensions outside the three BART counties died in the Assembly. Transportation Committee last week for lack of the required number of votes.

Catalyst for the bill's demise was Assemblyman John F. Foran (D-San Francisco).

Foran stated, "This bill has been introduced for several years and has always been killed in the Assembly."

The bill is an attempt to force BART and regional agencies, such as the Metropolitan Transportation

Commission, to meet presumed service commitments to places like Antioch and Livermore prior to tapping massive markets by extending BART to the San Francisco Airport or from Fremont to San Jose.

Foran, Chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, went on to say, "It is absurd to think of running a BART line to Antioch. Such a move would be a planning disaster and a fiscal boondoggle."

"Consistent with Legislative Analyst, A. Alan Post's report, we must get BART on the road to paying more of its own way, and to me this means developing the maximum amount of fare revenues at minimum cost. There are lucrative markets for BART but certainly extensions to relatively unpopulated areas don't open up these markets."

"Another major problem with the bill," Foran stated, "is that it ignores the institutions we have set up to make decisions about BART extensions. Under law the Metropolitan Transportation Commission, in conjunction with BART, is suppose to make these decisions and the bill completely ignores this point of law."

Foran said, "I feel the author (Senator John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek) has introduced this measure at the request of a handful of growth-oriented constituents in the Antioch Pittsburg area. It is a bad bill and no amount of amendment or compromise will make it a good one."

Good morning, good cooks.

It's no wonder casseroles are such favorites with good cooks, they have so many things going for them: They are easy to fix, a meal in themselves and usually comparatively inexpensive. The oven takes over the meal preparation while the cook relaxes.

The recipe we are considering today combines all these lovely qualities and more, for it is quite adaptable. I made it once using some left over cooked ham and it was equally delicious.

CHICKEN AND BROCCOLI CASSEROLE

2 cups cubed cooked chicken
1 cup chopped cooked broccoli, drained
1 can (10 1/2-oz.) cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese, if desired
1 can (8 oz.) Refrigerated Buttermilk or Country Style Biscuits

Oven 375-degrees 4 to 6 Servings
In 1 1/2-quart casserole, combine the chicken, broccoli, chicken soup, onion and salad dressing and Worcestershire sauce and mix well. Bake at 375-degrees for 20 to 25 minutes until hot and bubbly. Meanwhile, prepare topping.

At the end of the baking time, sprinkle the casserole with the half cup grated cheese, if desired.
Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Cut each biscuit in half. Arrange the biscuit halves in a circle around the edge of hot casserole, cut side down. (The edging of rounded biscuits gives the casserole a very attractive appearance.) Spoon the Topping over biscuits. Bake at 375-degrees for an additional 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown.

TOPPING

1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1 egg
1 tsp. celery seed
1/2 tsp. salt
In small mixing bowl combine the sour cream, egg, celery seed and salt. Blend well.

Industries Offer Tours to Students

The Bay Area Engineers Week Committee appealed today to high school teachers to take advantage of a schedule of tours of engineering and industrial facilities available to students throughout next week.

Grove J. Fox of Kaiser Engineers, special events chairman for Engineers' Week, said lists of tours open have been mailed to science departments and career counselors of every high school in eight Bay Area counties.

They can arrange class trips, he said, by calling the "contact" given for each available tour on the list, or by calling Fox at 271-6038.

"Here are some very unusual opportunities," he said, for teachers to get their students in on some highly interesting visits to laboratories, manufacturing plants, industrial firms, utilities, research and development facilities, chemical plants, and many others.

More than 20 firms and institutions in the East Bay, North Bay and on the Peninsula, have agreed to open their doors to visiting students at certain times next week.

Accompanying all student groups, he said, will be practicing professional engineers and plant operating people to answer questions.

Interested students, he suggested, should ask the heads of their science departments or their counselors to arrange a tour. Local tours may be scheduled at the following companies:

San Francisco International Airport - Tour consists of a walk through airport facilities, after which the group goes inside an airplane. Contact: Jim Sorel, 876-2217.

Union Carbide Corp., 7 S. Linden Ave., South San Francisco. Tour includes observation of production facilities, safety devices and general operation. Contact: Chuck Manery 783-2055.

Pacific Telephone (San Mateo/Hayward Counties), 66 Willow Place, Room 125, Menlo Park - Tours visit the new electronic office and an older conventional office. Contact: Ray Maloney, 855-4403.

TRAFFIC STOPPERS

Vista Mar School's new traffic patrol poses with Lt. Tom Culley (l.) and officer Neil Hammann. In the back row left to right they are Mrs. J. Mattia, Joyce Hunziker, Cecelia Mereno, Mike Lenzini, Virginia Sanders, Amy Gray, Lisa Caracciolo and Mrs. J. Lindstrom. Front row: George Merjano, Vanessa Pequeros, Derek Lawson and Fred Rivera.

Safekeeping Serra High Senior Wins Of Records Award for Leadership

The importance of safekeeping personal documents such as military discharge papers, marriage licenses, divorce decrees or child custody evidence is emphasized by the Veterans Administration in daily counseling sessions with former military members, the Director of the VA Regional Office here said recently.

Director R. F. Welch said other information that should be filed with family documents are government and commercial life insurance policies, VA correspondence with identifying claim numbers, social security numbers and, where applicable, naturalization papers.

"A few minutes in simple organization can do much in avoiding undue anguish during times of great emotional stress," Welch said.

Gale D. Hom of Serra Monte High School in Daly City has been named a 1976 Betty Crocker Leader of Tomorrow. She won the honor by scoring highest at her high school in a written knowledge and aptitude examination administered to seniors throughout the country Dec. 2.

She will receive a certificate from General Mills, sponsor of the annual Betty Crocker Search for Leadership in Family Living, and becomes eligible for state and national honors.

From the ranks of all school winners in the state, a State Family Leader of Tomorrow is selected through judging centered on test performance and receives a $1,500 college scholarship. The second-ranking student in the state will receive a $500 scholarship. Encyclopaedia Britannica Educational Corporation will present "The Annals of America," a 20-volume reference work, to the state winner's school.

Representing every state and the District of Columbia, the Betty Crocker Family Leaders of Tomorrow, together with their faculty advisors, will gather in Washington, D.C., in April, for an expense-paid educational tour of the capital city.

During the tour, personal observations and interviews are conducted to select the All-American Family Leader of Tomorrow, who receives a $5,000 college scholarship. Second, third and fourth place national winners receive scholarships increased to $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000, respectively.

The test, personal observations and interviews are all prepared and conducted by Science Research Associates of Chicago.

Nureyev Appears

"Excitement, adventure, color and beauty beyond everything you have ever seen," is one critic's appraisal of Rudolf Nureyev's full length ballet classic, "Don Quixote."

The film will be premiered in San Francisco March 5 at 8 p.m. at the Palace of Fine Arts. Other showings are March 6 at 7 and 9:30 p.m. and March 7 at 3 and 7 p.m. Arts Unlimited, national representative of the film for the Walter Reade Organization is sponsor.

Tickets are priced at $5 and are on sale at the Downtown Ticket Center, 325 Mason St., all Macy's Stores, BASS outlets and Neil Thrums, Oakland.

*When you're in love
you have everything.*

Almost.

Maybe young lovers can live on moonbeams and marigolds.

But when they marry and become Young Homemakers they find they need more—things like furniture, appliances, floor coverings, linens, draperies, and, if all goes well...infantswear.

Because they need so many things, and need them right away, Young Homemakers are an important market for most retailers. According to a nationwide study by the Newspaper Advertising Bureau, the typical Young Homemaker moves about three times during the first five years of marriage. Some of these moves are from city to city and some are within the same area, but each move is usually into larger quarters and that means buying additional furnishings.

The Young Homemakers are careful shoppers, relying on the daily newspaper as a shopping tool. 66% of those interviewed had read a daily newspaper the day before. Nine out of 10 of those who used advertising as a purchase guide said the advertising in the newspaper is the "most helpful" kind—more helpful than commercials on TV or radio.

If you're a Young Homemaker with lots to buy to make a house a home, shop the pages of this newspaper before you shop the fine stores who advertise with us.

And if you're a retailer who wants to know more about reaching and informing today's Young Homemakers, call us for more details from the very interesting Bureau study.

Crimes Against Persons

Lead SSF '75 Increase

By JANET PARKER
Crime in South San Francisco increased 13 per cent in 1975, according to a report by Police Chief James Datzman.

Although there were no murders in the city in 1975, other crimes against individuals including robbery, rape and assault increased by 28 per cent.

Property crimes, including burglary and theft, increased 12 per cent, Chief Datzman said.

He attributed the city's crime increase to a general nationwide trend in suburban areas.

The only solutions, Datzman said, are increasing personnel or reducing certain services offered to the community such as coverage of non-injury accidents and house checks for vacationing residents.

"If money isn't available there will be a continued increase in the crime rate," Datzman said.

Crime also could continue to increase even if more personnel is provided the department, the chief said.

The department is evaluating personnel needs and will be making a recommendation to City Council for more officers in its 1976-77 budget request, Datzman said.

He has requested additional officers the last three years but has not received approval from the council.

Presently there are 70 police officers and 15 office workers.

The chief has set high in his priorities for 1976 the addition of community service technicians to the department. Technicians would do many of the tasks now required of regular police officers not involving arrests, Datzman said.

One of the major crimes that increased in the city was thefts of property valued at more than $2,000, an increase of 124 per cent from 170 in 1974 to 381 in 1975.

Datzman said the increase was due to increasing thefts of auto stereos and citizen band radios and the inflationary costs of items taken from construction shacks.

Other increases include rape, 50 per cent; motor vehicle theft, 7 per cent; and burglary, 1 per cent.

There were 42 robberies but only 11 were cleared by arrest. Of the 12 rapes this year, five were cleared by arrest.

Total arrests, Datzman reported, increased 13 per cent from 2,032 in 1974 to 2,305 in 1975.

Adult arrests increased by 9 per cent and juvenile arrests increased 20 per cent.

Datzman also revealed that there were 66 public complaints against police services issued in 1975 and 13 of those reports resulted in formal reprimands.

The public, he said, may file a "citizen's report" at anytime and all result in a staff investigation.

Although many, Datzman said, were investigated with no action taken, several led to suspensions of up to six days without pay or by resignation.

There also were 13 formal commendations made to individual officers, he said.

Datzman said he is greatly concerned about the crime increase.

If it is possible to make departmental changes by increasing personnel, Datzman said, he would want to increase the number of police beats providing smaller areas for policemen to cover, or increase the special assignment units to focus on special needs.

"If we are going to look at increasing crime, the areas for most consideration are downtown and the commercial areas," Datzman said.

In addition to community service technicians, Datz-

OSHA Seminar Is Scheduled

The San Mateo County Safety Council will conduct a Cal-OSHA Record Keeping and Reporting Seminar today until noon, according to Ralph Kuhlmann, executive vice president of the council. The three-hour program will be held in the B-1 Conference Room, Hall of Justice, 401 Marshall Street, Redwood City.

man ranks high on his list of 1976 objectives the continuation of the North County Detention Facility at Daly City Hall and implementation of a Youth Services Bureau to handle less serious youth problems in San Bruno, Brisbane and South San Francisco.

Datzman said the county's funding of the Daly City facility for North County arrests will expire on Jan. 1, 1977 and he wants a commitment from the county that the joint jail facility will continue.

The Youth Service Bureau, the chief said, will counsel juveniles who are arrested on minor offenses or for the first time rather than sending them to Hillcrest Juvenile Hall in Belmont.

Although application for staff funding of a bureau has been filed, it has not been approved.

Former SSF Police Chief Belloni Dies

Louis Belloni, the first chief of police of South San Francisco and chief until his retirement in May, 1960, died last Tuesday night at the age of 80 at the Kaiser Foundation Hospital in South San Francisco.

Belloni joined the department in April, 1922, when there was no chief and became the city's first chief two years later.

He was also at one time in his career volunteer fire chief of the city, and when he retired from the department, South San Francisco had grown ten times from its population of 4,000 when he originally joined the force. His career was sometimes stormy, and after his retirement, Chief Belloni made an unsuccessful bid for a seat on the city council.

Although he was a native of San Jose, his parents brought him to South San Francisco at the age of three months.

Belloni was replaced by the late John Fabbro, who died suddenly after becoming chief of the Fremont Police Department in Alameda County, when Belloni retired in May, 1960.

As a member of the 363rd Infantry, Belloni fought in France in World War I.

Before becoming a peace officer, Belloni worked as a butcher at the Western Meat Co., which later became Swift & Co. He also worked as a steelworker for the Pacific Coast Steel Co., which later was taken over by Bethlehem Steel Co.

It was during this period he joined the volunteer fire department in 1912. The fire department was housed in the city hall, and Belloni was the first volunteer to maintain residence there in 1920.

As a sergeant machine gunner with the 91st Division, Belloni saw action at St. Michel, Meuse Aronne, Ypres, Lys and the Belgium Defense Sector. He received the French Croix de Guerre for fighting in the Battle of Verdun.

He was a member of South San Francisco Post No. 4103, V.F.W.; the Bernard McCaffery Post, American Legion; the San Mateo County Law Enforcement Association, the Bay County Peace Officers Association.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Lee Urban Joins Scotty Campbell's

New addition to the family scene at Scotty Campbell's: Lee Urban, son of Theresa and Bud Urban, is now posting at this Redwood City dinner house, along with Mary Lou, Theresa, Richard and Helen Trainor. One thing is sure: Judging from the amount of business that flows into this award-winning restaurant, all hands are kept busy from opening to closing. Fanciers of Canneloni are going to be pleased to know that this savory dish is now on the selective menu here. Another new happening is the advent of an additional cocktail lounge just off the foyer. There's no doubt that Scotty Campbell's success flag will long be waving. Wine authority and bon vivant Fred Cherry recommends the new Phil Lehr's Steakery in the bottom of the San Francisco Hilton Tower for pre-theater dining. In an article in Performing Arts, Cherry singled out the flaming Steak Shallot and luscious Cherry Cheesecake Jubilee as two specialties worthy of special praise. There's a new look in Barney's Casino slot machine area and the customers are wearing ear-to-ear smiles as the red lights ring out "Jackpot." The upstairs restaurant is enjoying a booming business during the breakfast, luncheon and late-night hours. Prices are right, food a delight. The busiest lass in any town has to be Pam Jones, who serves doughnuts, coffee and hamburgers at the Pantry Donut Shop (3799 South El Camino in San Mateo). Pam also puts in a shift at the Bay Meadows Turf Club during the evenings. When the track closes, she heads for Green's Bail Bond office in Redwood City, where she spends the rest of the night on call for bail outs. Would you believe, she reports for a 6 a.m. opening at the doughnut shop? With any luck at all, says Pam, she will wind up on Sunday in the capacity of a caddy.

The Conner Family Dunfey's Tavern Hit

The Conner Family, currently appearing in Dunfey's Tavern at the Royal Coach Motor Hotel in San Mateo through March 7, has one record album to its credit and a second to be released soon. A re-gard opening celebration will take place here this weekend when the hotel's Mr. Pickwick Coffee Shop reopens. Special low-priced dinners (for adults and children) will be featured throughout the weekend. Children will be presented with a special desert treat. The "Coyote Point" is among the brunch favorites featured every Sunday at The Castaway, in San Mateo. This specialty consists of tiny California shrimp, served on French bread and garnished with avocado. If you're interested in a money-saving offer (and who isn't!), take advantage of the "2 for 1" dinner special being offered by Robert Kania, new manager of The Tailwinds in Belmont. The offer is valid all through February, Monday through Thursday evenings only. And you can order any item on the menu. This is Kania's way of acquainting patrons with his entirely new kitchen operation. Fisherman's Wharf is right in our own backyard on the Peninsula. You'll be convinced once you scan the menu at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant and enjoy some of the take-home seafoods offered at their Fish Depot next door. Jim Duval & Company opened Tuesday night for an unlimited engagement at Peabody's Lounge in Burlingame. Part of the charm of this musical group is their versatility.

Oceanside Dining At Rockaway Beach

Oceanside dining at Nick Gust's three Rockaway Beach restaurants, Nick's, Captain Charles, and The Moonraker, offers menus for every appetite. The House of Lim in Redwood City features Cantonese and American cuisine spotlighted with the Keno Lunch and special five and six-course dinners. A taste of Italy is presented by Enrico Romano at his colorful Italian and pizza restaurant, located in the heart of Rockaway Beach. For Nevada (South Shore) visitors, the South Tahoe Nugget is a target for the budget minded. The food is terrific. Lehr's Greenhouse Garden restaurant in San Francisco offers continuous food service from 11:30 a.m. to midnight daily, and on Sundays owner Murray Lehr opens the doors at 9:30 a.m. for the fabulous Ramos Fizz Brunch. Continental cuisine rules the specialty sign at Tino's of San Carlos (former site of the Gold Platter). Serving luncheon and dinner, piano entertainment by George Cerruti on Friday and Saturday nights. The Velvet Turtle's reputation speaks for itself — and by all means, plan a reservation. Business has never been better for the Garden Restaurants, a bustling restaurant complex located on the lower level of the Tanforan Park Shopping Center in San Bruno. "Bright Lights" readers really know a bargain when they see it. Response to the 50 cent dinner coupon, which is worth 50 cents off on any purchase over one dollar at any of the nine Garden restaurants, has been overwhelming.

Old SSF Fire Bell Will Ring Again

By JANET PARKER
In the days when South San Francisco had five volunteers for a fire crew, a sturdy and shiny 2-foot high bell rang loud and clear to announce a local emergency.

That bell, cast in 1892 by W.T. Garrett Co., outlived its purpose in 1928 when South San Francisco's first full-time fire department was formed.

For nearly 40 years, that bell has been stored in a corner of Fire Station 2 on Harbor Boulevard.

Earlier this month, Al Bianchi, a former fire fighter and retired parks and recreation employee, told the Bicentennial Committee about the neglected antique.

Since then wheels have been turning and the commission has hurriedly planned a ceremony at 2 p.m. Sunday to coincide with the birthdate of George Washington.

On the steps of City Hall, Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner will present the historical bell to the city and announce plans for its brighter future.

"We want to get the bell out of retirement," said Walter Pettigrew, committee chairman pro-tem.

When Bianchi first brought attention to the bell, it was missing a clapper and at one point it evidently had been painted red because traces of old paint, as well as rust, tarnished its appearance.

Since then the clapper has been found and plans are being made for cleaning and polishing the relic before it's given a permanent place of honor in the city — at a site yet to be designated.

Sunday's plans include a color guard assisted by Boy Scout Troop 291 and music by one of the high school bands.

South San Francisco's restored 1916 fire engine will bring the bell up Grand Avenue from Fire Station 2 to the City Hall.

City historian Linda Kauffman said the first newspaper articles about the bell date back to 1892 although the date on the bell appears to be 1896.

The first hose Co. 1, with only five men, formed in 1892 and in 1896 a tower was built for the bell between the post office and Brenner's Bar on Grand Avenue.

In 1904 a hose house was built at the corner of Grand and Linden Avenues and there the bell found a new home.

The new fire company had 14 men and was accredited by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The official Fire Department version of its own history, Kauffman said, indicates there was no fire department until 1908 when the city was incorporated. Newspaper articles, she said, show that there was a fire company much earlier and the bell itself verifies that.

Until 1928 when the fulltime department was established, paid fire-fighters slowly integrated with volunteers.

Over the years 80 different men worked as volunteers.

The organization wasn't all work, she said. There were masquerade balls, competition against other city volunteers and regular meetings.

"There wasn't much for young men to do in those days," Ms. Kauffman said.

The bell was particularly important to the volunteers at night, she said, when it was more difficult to see far off fires.

Pettigrew said committee members were attempting to locate the few remaining members of the old volunteer crew. So far, Pettigrew said, the few that could be found were unable to attend the ceremony because of illness or other commitments.

Plans are being made for a permanent location for the bell. School board president Ken Austin is working with the committee in planning a summer school art class. Instructor Mary Meisner hopes the class can prepare a mosaic casing to house the bell.

Other committee members would like to see it hung in front of City Hall.

And if the Public Safety Complex is built, the bell could become a permanent fixture there, Pettigrew said.

Although the volunteer fire crew's bell has been replaced by modern sirens and horns, the ring of the bell was just as important in the days of early South San Francisco. Ms. Kauffman said.

Le Pacini

Now that it looks like the Giants will be staying awhile, we should wipe the slate clean, as they say in the clichés, and pretend that they are new kids in town; forget the heartaches of the old love affair and begin a new romance . . . but, like any experienced old lover, not forget the mistakes of the past.

We should not let the new owners come in complacent, as Horace Stoneham apparently did. But we should also remember that while Stoneham made his share of mistakes, we the fans, were perhaps more responsible for the demise of the old Giants than Stoneham.

True, the Giants couldn't promote a kid out of the first grade. True, the majority of the front office, if it were in any other business, working for any other boss, would have been on welfare for the past 17 years.

All true, yes, but any organization or group or city or country which closes its eyes to wrongdoing to satiate its own selfish immediate pleasure, gets the eventual shabbiness it deserves.

And if you can accept the premise that the park called Candlestick and its location had much to do with the plight of the Giants, then you can accept some self-blame.

Consider . . . Seals Stadium was engineered to hold a second deck, and the Seals had an option on the park across the street earmarked for eventual parking. But the politicians declared that Seals Stadium, even though it was generally acknowledged to be a better baseball park than most then existing in the major leagues, was inadequate for big league play because it was too small and there was no parking.

They also ignored the wealth of public transportation with easy access to the stadium.

Mayor George Christopher even had the gall to tell Horace Stoneham that Candlestick weather was good and that there was never any fog in that area of the city.

That was an answer to a direct question put to Christopher by Stoneham during a Christopher visit to New York. This information appeared in a San Francisco Sunday supplement magazine article written by Christopher himself.

In 1953 contractor Charles Harney purchased from the city of San Francisco 65 acres of land around Candlestick Point for $136,500 — or a little over $2,000 an acre.

A few years later the Christopher administration selected Harney and two of Harney's employees as the first board of directors of Stadium, Inc., a dummy corporation set up so that the Christopher administration could bypass voters to raise more money for the stadium.

Christopher then appointed Harney as the stadium contractor, and Harney sold back to the city 41 of his 65 acres for $2.7 million, or $65,853 an acre. Surrounding acreage was then selling for about $4-6,500 an acre.

When questions were asked about this, Christopher and Harney contended that Harney was entitled to that huge profit because he had improved the land by grading and filling it. But the fact remained that of the $7 million fee awarded Harney to construct the stadium, $2 million was included for grading and filling.

Had it not been for Stadium, Inc., the administration would have been required to hold open, competitive bidding for the contract, and bids would have become public information.

During the year of its construction, the estimated cost of building the stadium mysteriously rose from $5 million to $15 million; that during a period which wasn't marked by excessive inflation.

The grand jury conducted an investigation and issued a scathing report on the Candlestick dealings. Foreman Henry E. North called it a scandal.

In 1960 freelance writer Lewis Lindsay wrote an authoritative account of this "scandal" in the June edition of the now defunct magazine, The Californian; a magazine with only a few thousand circulation.

The main branch of the San Francisco Public Library has a complete set of The Californian, except for one missing issue . . . you guessed it. The June edition.

Naturally, when Stevens' concessionaires moved from back East to handle Candlestick concessions, they used Christopher Milk exclusively, until 1966.

Now virtually all of the above is public record (except for a few minor items which we have personally picked up from reliable sources), and, to our knowledge, has never been denied by any of the principals involved.

And we have here only scratched the surface of the chiseling connected with Candlestick.

Why wasn't anything ever done about it? The Board of Supervisors ignored the grand jury report, as did, apparently, the city attorney.

The local press almost literally buried it. Whenever natives warned of the bad weather conditions at Candlestick Point, they were hooted down, along with all other critics.

The sad fact is that the public — you and I — chose to ignore all of this because we were so hungry for a major league team, because our civic egos were so desperate for Big League designation, that we were willing to accept such machinations in exchange for the Giants.

And the smart politicians knew it, and that's how it all happened, and we hope the lesson has been learned.

Sudden thought: Now that Bob Lurie's in charge of the Giants, can his old golfing buddy, Lon Simmons, be far behind the announcer's booth?

Retraction: A couple of weeks ago we wrote about new 49er assistant coach Floyd Peters and recalled his days as a "Simon Pure" at S.F. State, once when he had to leave a practice early to grab a streetcar to his job.

When coach Joe Verducci asked him why he had to leave early, we wrote, "Peters said, not without malice. 'Because I've got to catch the next 'M' streetcar to my job.' That was supposed to read, 'Peters said WITH-OUT malice.'"

Coming up: The 27th Annual Mission High School Athletic Alumni dinner, held as usual at the Seven Hills Restaurant, 26 California Street, San Francisco. It's March 5, with the drinking to begin at 7 and most likely to continue well into the evening, unless somebody wishes to eat at 8 p.m.

Price is $7, and that includes tip. More details on the Mission dinner next week. If you give guys from Mission to many details at once, they can't handle them.

Also, there's a donkey basketball game at Terra Nova High School this Friday, starting time 7:30 p.m. Juniors will play the faculty, proceeds to go to the junior prom.

Another local note: Oceana's premier soccer player, Mike Haas, has been named the NPL's Most Valuable Player. He also made the All-NPL team for the third consecutive year, being the only Pacifica kid to make that squad.

His coach, Ed Larios, has called him the best ever to play NPL soccer.

MISCELLANY:

Have you noticed that for four teams with the worst records in the NBA are all in one conference — the Midwest Division? Milwaukee, the leader, would be in last place in any of the other divisions.

Even boxing must expand. The WBC recently announced that it has established a new weight division called super bantamweight.

REVEALING PHOTOGRAPHS OF TWO FAMOUS ACTORS

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. dispelled one myth and confirmed another within five minutes of our lunch date this week at Trader Vic's. He's not British and has never lived there except for vacations. And he's every bit as charming, dapper, articulate, urbane, sophisticated and handsome a movie idol today as when he caused women to sigh 30 years ago in "Prisoner of Zenda," "Gunga Din," "The Corsican Brothers," and "Sinbad the Sailor."

Far less shy at 66 years of age than he's depicted in a treasure of a photo album published yesterday, "The Fairbanks Album" by New York Graphic Society ($19.95), the trim, tanned, grey-haired actor teased and joked with an affable, easy manner. We spoke of the parallel film and stage careers, private and public lives of the father and son whose names were associated with action-adventure-heroic films during three decades in Hollywood.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS JR.
A Charmer

"For four generations my family has had summer homes in England depending on the ups and downs of their fortunes. But I sold mine in South Kensington two weeks ago and have always had homes in New York or Palm Beach. For some reason, I've always been more noticed abroad than here."

That's odd when you realize the actor has seldom been out of the public eye since he retired from filmmaking in 1950. Five years ago he performed in "My Fair Lady" for the Civic Light Opera in San Francisco, a city he first played in 1927 in "The Jest" and again the following year in "Young Woodley." On his last visit here he stayed in Hillsborough during the seven week run of "MFL."

This year he'll return to a role he's done four times before, "The Pleasure of His Company." It's slated for an eight-week run in London and Dublin. In the 50s he was producing plays for NBC and ABC television, acting in 40 out of a series of 160. He kept active in the 60s with TV specials, symphony orchestra narrations, song and story recordings and went on speaking tours here and abroad.

His voice has a cultured tone, a result of theater training. It is often mistaken for a British accent and has the ability to make women swoon. As he put it, "men fall in love with eyes, women fall in love with voices."

The terrible truth is that some people confuse him with his famous father who died in his sleep of a heart attack at age 56 in 1939. The two men didn't look alike in their respective youth, but there is a photo (among 320 marvelous candid shots of both with various wives, colleagues, friends and children) on page 206 that shows their remarkable resemblance in later life. As the book's author Richard Schickel notes of Fairbanks Sr., "he left an ageless image" that has been inherited by an equally famous son.

What makes the book so fascinating is the love-hate relationship of father to son. Fairbanks Sr. was obsessed with an ego, jealousy (of losing his star status), a highly competitive and neurotic desire for attention that disguised an almost manic-depressive moodiness, according to the book. The son was reluctant to label it as such.

The handsome book whose "cover costs more than all the pages," according to Fairbanks is not a son's remembrance of his father, but a visual history of two remarkable lives linked by blood ties. Written by a man who knew both the subjects, the author is an impartial observer to the struggle of a son to get his father's approval and of a father to come to grips with his own mortality.

"Before he died we talked about doing three films together: 'Marco Polo' but Sam Goldwyn offered him a lot of money for the idea because he wanted to use Gary Cooper; 'Alexander The Great,' with my father playing Alexander's father, Philip of Macedon, and 'Lord Byron' in Venice. But neither of the two got beyond the talking stage. He actually had a treatment of 'The Californian' which was about Joaquin Murieta developed the year he died.

"He'd done four talkies but his heart wasn't in it. He and Chaplin formed a movie company together and were each other's best audiences but they never acted together.

"My father was a spectacular dancer. He moved like Nureyev, but he never studied fencing or dancing. Everything I did in my films I prepared for with study and learned fencing as a youngster.

"When people ask if my father left me a big inheritance, I remind them I've made my own fortune. A lot of his was lost in the Depression, but he did invest wisely."

There has been talk of doing a musical based on Fairbanks Sr.'s life. But as Junior says, "his life was interesting but not dramatic enough."

When Douglas Elton Ulman and Gladys Smith were married in 1920 under the names of Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, the world went sentimentally ga-ga over the two most popular screen stars of the day. The world accorded the romantic couple more adulation and riots wherever they went than their modern counterparts, Liz Taylor and Richard Burton.

"Father and Mary became larger than life because they captured the public's imagination during a unique period in the personality build-up and economic time of the film industry.

"Actors in my father's time liked to think they belonged to a special species but they're really no different than musicians in that they're interpreting creations of someone else. And those around them create an artificial magic to promote them while the actors feel they have to generate some mystique."

MERCY MARDI GRAS

Mercy High School principal Sister Mary Janet Rossano learns about the Mardi Gras Dinner Dance which will take place at the school Feb. 28 from Mesdames Fred Glesener of South San Francisco, president of the Mercy Parents Club; Vernon Carmichael of San Carlos, reservations chairman; and Joseph Byrwalter of San Mateo, hostess chairman (from left). Mr. and Mrs. George Hadfield of South San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Carr of San Mateo are co-chairmen of the event, and the Paoli Brunis of Burlingame are in charge of dinner preparation.

County Couple Wed

Friends and relatives of Janice G. Champlain and Guenther E. Ratzmer gathered Saturday afternoon to witness the couple's marriage at the Episcopal Church of St. Matthew.

The Rev. John Easton performed the 2 o'clock rites for the daughter of Mrs. Richard S. Champlain of Millbrae, and the son of Mrs. Erich Ratzmer of South San Francisco. The bride is also the daughter of the late Mr. Champlain and the bridegroom is also the son of the late Mr. Ratzmer.

Janice was given in marriage by her uncle and godfather, Edward G. Lawrence of Modesto. She wore a satin and chiffon Empire gown trimmed in lace at the collar and cuffs and fashioned with a stand-up collar and train. Baby's breath and white and pink roses were arranged in her bouquet.

Linda K. Lacy of Clayton served as her sister's matron of honor, and Didi Young and Marie V. Curley of Burlingame shared bridesmaid duties. The bridesmaids were dressed alike in floor length cranberry red dresses with "V" necklines, long sleeves and Empire waists. They carried nosegays of pink carnations and baby's breath.

Guenther asked Robert Baggiani of Pacifica to be his best man, H. E. and Alan Lacy, the bride's brother-in-law, were chosen as groomsmen, and ushers included Jim and Rick Lawrence of Modesto, the bridegroom's cousins, and Keith Woods of Fresno, another cousin.

After the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted well-wishers at a dinner dance reception at the California Golf Club in South San Francisco. Guests included the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Nena Becker and Mrs. Mabel Chaplain, both of Fresno, and the bridegroom's uncle, Albert Ratzmer of Germany.

The newlyweds, who plan to make their first home in Millbrae, are honeymooning in the Caribbean after a brief stay in Washington, D.C.

A registered nurse at Peninsula Hospital, the bride is a graduate of Loma Linda University in Southern California. Her husband is associated with an oil company in San Jose. He was educated in Germany. Mrs. Edith Nickless of South San Francisco is his sister.

SMHS Alumni Party

Alumni and friends of San Mateo High School have been invited to attend the reunion cocktail party which has been planned for Feb. 29 by the SMHS Alumni Association.

Setting for the event will be the building recently vacated by the US Navy Reserve at Baldwin and San Mateo Drive. Now owned by Mills Hospital, the facility was once the site of San Mateo High which conducted classes previous to that time at St. Matthews School for Girls and at a small building on Ellsworth Avenue which has since been torn down.

During the 3 to 6 p.m. reunion, champagne and cheese will be served for a nominal fee, and reservations may be made by writing Mrs. Edward E. Weinfield, 25 LaSalle Road, Hillsborough 94010, no later than Friday. No tickets or receipts will be issued, however, a list will be kept at the door of those who have made reservations. Participants are requested to include their names, addresses, year of graduation, and maiden name if they are now married.

Space is limited because of the building size and fire regulations.

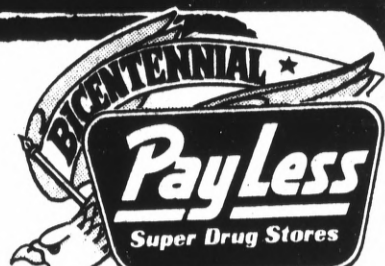

Tom Reimer of Hillsborough, president of the SMHS Alumni Association Executive Committee, has appointed the following as decade directors: Robert Caldwell, San Mateo, '20s; Hazel Cocconi, San Mateo, '30s; Mike Martinelli, San Mateo, '40s; Bill Odom, San Mateo, '50s; Gary Kaefer, San Mateo, '60s; and Roz Weinfield, Hillsborough, '70s. Kaefer also will serve as refreshment chairman at the party.

Ryan Announces He'll Seek 3rd Congressional Term

By DAN COOK
Incumbent Eleventh District Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, took out nominating papers Tuesday morning from the county clerk's office, signaling his intention to seek another term.

The official announcement of his candidacy came at a luncheon gathering of Ryan supporters and county Democratic functionaries at Chen's Restaurant in San Carlos.

Ryan was somewhat surprised by a turn of developments just an hour earlier when fellow Democrat Maurice Fitzgerald, an educator and union official, announced his withdrawal from the race.

Ryan said he had prepared remarks dealing primarily with education issues and was surprised at Fitzgerald's sudden withdrawal.

The congressman made a few remarks to the gathering of supporters, many of whom are officers of ethnic and community organizations.

"The holding of office is nothing more than having a responsibility to the people who elected you," Ryan said. "No matter how hard you try, sooner or later you end up disappointing everyone."

"It is a mark of political maturity to disagree, but remain supportive and able to communicate," Ryan said, in apparent reference to criticism of his record in some labor quarters.

Ryan defended his vote last year to sustain the President's veto of the Educational Appropriations Bill.

"I believe in serving the customer and in education we don't serve the school child anywhere near enough," Ryan said. "You can be in favor of dynamic social change but there has to be a lid on top."

"As far as federal policy is concerned you can be a liberal, but see how much money you have in your wallet first and then say no," Ryan said. "If you have no more money it's a question of where to put what you have. We have too much laid in the wrong places."

One of Ryan's audience, Basil Emery, president of the San Mateo County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, asked that if a lid was placed on spending what would happen to the people most in need?

"We have had many problems because of eight years of Republican administration and Congress has spent eight years holding back an executive branch which ignores the human condition," Ryan charged. "Take a look at the list of vetoed: the issue of this campaign is whether or not you like those vetoes. I don't like them."

"I want to see us taking care of our citizens," Ryan declared. "I'm not interested in going to Angola to play games, nor in the B-1 bomber, despite the fact that the aerospace workers, who are building it, support it."

Eleanor Curry, long active in the county Economic Opportunities Commission and Human Relations Commission, asked Ryan his attitude toward pending legislation affecting the status of women.

"I have been a supporter of the Equal Rights Amendment for a number of years," Ryan said. "During the last session I co-authored a bill with Rep. Yvonne Brathwaite Burke (D-Los Angeles) for retraining programs for women's re-entry, because of changing laws of divorce and social outlook."

"There are women who desperately need help," Ryan said, "and they should get it."

Asked about his support of former Georgia governor Jimmy Carter for the Democratic Presidential nomination, Ryan said, "He is concerned about poor people and about education. So am I."

Ryan said he began to support Carter's candidacy after a discussion with Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga.

"As a matter of national policy we can put the unemployed to work," Ryan said. "Jimmy Carter has proven in his own state that he can do that."

School Site Sale Snarled

By RICK SULLIVAN
Unexpected bureaucratic red tape is inhibiting efforts by the San Bruno Park School District to sell its North Brae School to the City of San Bruno and may ultimately force the district to look elsewhere for a buyer.

According to City Engineer Leo Van Dusen, it may be at least another three months before the city can purchase the North Brae property, which is earmarked to be used as a community center.

Van Dusen said that after more than a year of hammering out an agreement with the district to buy the Montgomery Avenue property, San Bruno has just learned that the federal government mandates that the city hire two appraisers to place independent values on the school before buying the property. The two appraisals, Van Dusen said, must be submitted to the county, which ultimately will decide how much money will be allocated to the city to buy the school.

The county is acting as the agent for the federal Housing and Urban Development department, which, under federal legislation, is allocating cities funds to finance community projects.

The Board of Supervisors has allocated San Bruno $349,000 to purchase and remodel the North Brae School for use as a center for the city's youth and elderly. But the county will not release the money until an agreement to purchase the North Brae School is approved.

Van Dusen said that once the county receives the two appraisals it will advise the city on behalf of the HUD how much it may spend to buy the school. Van Dusen said HUD will pay no more, and no less than what the county believes the school is worth.

What the county decides on as an acceptable price is critical to both the city and the school district.

District Administrative Assistant Robert Barron said the district needs no less than "about $300,000" for the school. So if the county decides it will release less than that amount Barron said "the district will have to take another look at the situation."

Barron explained that if the city still wanted to purchase the school even after being advised that the county would release less than $300,000, the city would have to spend HUD money earmarked for remodeling the school to make up the difference.

The city then would have to spend its own money to remodel the facility to meet the needs of a community center.

Van Dusen referred comments on financing of the North Brae project to the city manager's office. City Manager Gerald Minford and his assistant Jack Mulqueeney were unavailable for comment until next week.

Van Dusen said he will recommend to the City Council Monday night that two appraisers be hired.

Cost of hiring the appraisers will come out of the HUD allocation.

Citizens Tell Transit Alternatives

By LIN DAY

The Citizens Advisory Committee of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission met for three hours Thursday night at the San Mateo County District Transit Office, Redwood City, to recommend a final list of future transit alternatives and criteria.

The committee — an informal, unstructured group open to all residents — will meet again March 4 at the Redwood City Courthouse to complete its findings for presentation to the Board of Control set up by MTC. The board will later review it and make recommendations to MTC.

In selecting criteria, the committee agreed on six areas to be considered. These include planning goals, impacts on the social and economic environment, impacts on the physical environment, operation of the transit, financing and system characteristics.

In selecting alternatives, the committee agreed upon diverse possible transit systems for the Peninsula, between San Francisco and San Jose.

These ranged from the status quo — doing nothing — to sophisticated combinations of either BART or the Southern Pacific Railroad, with light rail or bus transit. Even ferry boats were brought up. A bus transit network was one alternative.

The combinations included a major bus arterial down the Peninsula with feeder bus routes; a combination of BART to Daly City and the railroad to San Jose; BART to the San Francisco International Airport and the railroad to San Jose; railroad combined with bus transit; and railroad combined with BART and bus rapid transit.

The latter combination was one of several suggested which envisioned using Southern Pacific commuter trains at peak periods and bus or light rail rapid transit down the Peninsula at off-peak hours.

The definition of what is light rail transit was brought up and Chairman Frank Small indicated it would mean a rail system slower and making more stops than BART and having a lesser per-hour capacity.

Some of those attending wanted the fact brought out that a completely rebuilt rail commuter rapid transit system would cost hundreds of millions of dollars and be comparable to BART cost.

Other suggestions from the audience included one that, if it were decided to extend rapid transit rail commuter service to Fremont, the Dumbarton Bridge should be considered.

"If we are going to spend money on Dumbarton Bridge, let's get some use out of it," one of those attending said.

The alternatives included a complete BART line from San Francisco to San Jose and a complete upgraded Southern Pacific commuter service, as well as a trunkline-only feeder bus service to rapid transit buses on the Bayshore Freeway. Another was a complete new rapid transit rail service.

SF Symphony Has Its Flaws

By ROBERT BURMISTER

Wednesday night's Opera House performance by the San Francisco Symphony turned out to be something of a bust. The selections on the program, to be repeated tonight, held excellent promise for variety and uniqueness but were played without transmitting much artistic interest.

The first of four consecutive weeks of concerts to be led by Principal Guest Conductor Edo de Waart, this week's is garnished by an assembly of singers including Roberta Alexander, John Shirley-Quirk, James Atherton and the San Francisco Symphony Chorus. The selections, which looked good on paper but fell with a considerable thud under de Waart's baton, were Rachmaninoff's "The Bells" and Aaron Copland's "Old American Songs". More successful was his treatment of Charles Ives' Symphony No. 3.

The Third Symphony is amazingly trim, uncomplicated and conservative for Ives. Written and revised between 1901 and 1911, the symphony is subtitled "The Camp Meeting" for its intent to depict the feeling of early 19th century rural American religious gatherings.

In its construction, the tree movement piece uses a constant stream of hymn tunes for musical development. What distinguishes it from thicker, more complex examples of Ives' symphonic writing is a core of extremely facile, even jauntily string playing. Its tonality is unusually simple for Ives and under de Waart's leadership, the piece had an on-going mobility more like works by Arthur Foote or Roy Harris than like Ives' customarily layered-on harmonic complexities. It was a totally agreeable performance from its quiet opening through its unusual Largo conclusion.

John Shirley-Quirk is not the man to sing Copland's "Old American Songs." The baritone's apparent obsession to attain a very high style art song technique for these almost backwoods songs was all wrong. His pear-shaped tones were moving strictly from syllable to syllable without flow and without any semblance of a rural familiarity.

The one song which worked out reasonably well was "I Bought Me a Cat." Like its simpler cousin "Old MacDonald Had a Farm", the song uses a lot of animal sounds during its course. Quacks and Caws and Fiddle-eye-fee's lend themselves to syllabic diction, whereas political songs and ballads don't.

Rachmaninoff's elaborate "The Bells" came out of de Waart's belfry with a resounding clunk. The work is based on the poem of the same name by Edgar Allan Poe, although the text is quite freely adapted and altered. It is written for chorus, orchestra and three vocal soloists. It was played, though, as if de Waart's offering to the Bicentennial year was to recreate the crack in the Liberty Bell. He gave the music no contour to speak of, leaving it to sprawl out any which way.

The chorus was strong but unintelligible. The tenor, James Atherton, was weak but at least barely intelligible. Ms. Alexander, a young American-born soprano, was strong in her highs, weak in her lows, and unintelligible throughout all her range.

Pacifica Won't Get New Buses

Pacifica won't be receiving three large buses to supplement its transit system as originally expected, according to Transportation Analyst Kevin Roberts.

Roberts said the three buses, first scheduled for use in late January, did not pass inspection by the California Highway Patrol.

The three buses, old A.C. Transit vehicles built in 1947, had mechanical problems and equipment deficiencies, the report noted.

The City Council had been counting on the buses to add more service on the existing route to the Daly City BART station.

Pacifica has eight 20-passenger buses in operation. All were obtained from the San Mateo County Transit District last year.

The BART route has been overflowing with passengers, Roberts said.

Now, there will be no relief for riders on that route.

Roberts said the city is expected to obtain several more of the 20-passenger buses from the transit district in late April or May.

The council had approved renting the A.C.L. Transit buses for $500 each a month.

Burlingame Opposes Single County Idea

Burlingame went on record Tuesday night as opposing consolidation of San Mateo and San Francisco counties, as proposed by San Francisco Supervisor Quentin Kopp.

Mayor Irving Amstrup asked the Burlingame City Council to authorize a letter to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors outlining the city's opposition to Kopp's plan.

"I think we ought to say 'thank you but no thank you,'" said Amstrup, "I think we'd be better to stay as two separate counties."

The council moved quickly through a routine agenda, approving an auction permit for Saturday, which allows a San Francisco firm to auction off the properties of the local frozen food processor, Turek & Meek.

They authorized the Historical Society to make an inventory of the city's historical resources, and declared Burlingame

America's third "Green Survival City."

A hint of a crackdown on use of the American Legion Hall, operated on city property at Washington Park, was suggested by the council.

Noting that some activities had become troublesome in the recent past, council members agreed to ask the Legion to consider "a closer scrutiny of the groups" to whom they rent the hall.

Council members also asked for a hard look at conditions relating to a recent murder at a California drive tavern, and a police investigation into whether the place is meeting its legal conditions for city permits, including a dance permit.

"We should look into that," suggested Council-member William Crosby, asking for review of reported lesser troubles there. "I'd like to see what their experience has been."

The council approved establishment of a new job title, combining the water department and streets department supervisory tasks; and acknowledged receipt of $57,000 in revenue-sharing funds for Community Development.

Drop-in Series Slated

Women interested in "testing the climate" outside of the usual routine and having an opportunity to make new friends with others of mutual interests have been invited to a series of evening group sessions.

Setting for the series will be the coffee room of the Unitarian Fellowship Church, 300 E. Santa Inez, San Mateo. Sponsored by the Women's Center of San Mateo County, they will run on consecutive Mondays starting next week and continuing through March 22. The hours are 7:30 to 10 p.m., and no fee will be charged.

Facilitating the series will be Dorothy Duncan who has been involved with group process since 1968. As a leader, she focuses on individual growth and self-awareness through a method of sharing feelings and experiences.

DC Audit Shows City 'In Shape'

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Daly City recently released its financial report for 1975 — two months behind schedule.

A formal audit report has not been made on the city's financial condition, but Richard T. Dwyer, whose firm audits Daly City's books, said "overall, the city is in top financial shape."

Dwyer said he expected to have the audit completed and returned to the city manager within three weeks.

Asked the reason for the delay in release of the report, City Manager David Rowe blamed it on the fact that five vacancies existed in the finance department.

"There has been some talk that the city has been operating without a budget for several months," Rowe said. "This simply isn't true."

"On June 30, 1975, the council adopted the operating budget and every department head knew what his budget is," Rowe said.

The budget adopted was for $7.99 million, with a tax rate of $1.89 (adopted Aug. 25, 1975), down one cent from the previous year.

"Ordinarily we wait until the auditor's version of the report comes out," Rowe explained.

But questions raised by council candidate Michael De Bernardi concerning why the report had not been made public apparently prompted pushing completion of the report, it was learned.

John Massen, the finance director who resigned the post in March 1975 after four years, also is blamed by some members of the city staff for the financial delay.

Dwyer himself did not deny that Massen was in part to blame for the delay in the issuance of the audit report, but would not elaborate.

The audit usually is completed in December of each year, but has sometimes been done as early as August.

There is no law binding the city to make this audit, however. "It is done to assure the public that their money is being handled properly," according to Rowe.

With the completion of the annual financial report, the city will immediately publish additional budget reports for the general public, Rowe added.

However, while the city's operating budget has been adopted, the capitol budget has not.

The uncertainty of federal and state grants, funded by sales and cigarette taxes, is the reason for this delay, finance officials said.

"Typically, (we) have adopted these two budgets separately, with the capitol budget being adopted after the operating budget," Rowe said.

Last year the capitol budget was adopted in September.

"The more federal and state monies we can use for our capital outlay programs, the less money we need from local taxpayers," Rowe noted.

Public hearings are scheduled for today starting at 8 p.m. to discuss Community Development Block Grants and which agencies will get some of the money.

In 1975, Daly City showed a loss of $144,000. That money had to be taken from uncommitted reserves of previous years.

The reason the city experienced the loss was the unusual jump in cost of materials, supplies and services — an increase of between 8 and 15 per cent, Rowe said.

Daly City currently has about $1 million in unencumbered reserves ready to be used for such emergencies, Rowe said.

Ordinance Angers Mayor Cardoni

The introduction of amendments to the zoning ordinance relating to non-conforming uses within the city of Half Moon Bay drew an emotional outburst from Mayor Lloyd T. Cardoni last Tuesday night and resulted in the council's first split vote in months.

According to City Planner Stanley Walker, the zoning amendments were proposed to tighten up enforcement on nonconforming uses and set a time limit with a minimum of one year and a maximum of five years, renewable at council option, on those uses.

In the midst of Walker's presentation, Cardoni interrupted, saying, "So what this will do is drive existing businesses out of town."

Walker attempted to explain that the changes would force the businesses to look toward lower-cost, conforming parcels in the city for relocation, but Cardoni plunged forward.

"If we're going to drive any business out of town, then I don't want any part of this council or of the planning commission," Cardoni declared. "This is too small a community to think that way."

Mentioned as currently nonconforming in the city were the Coastside Gas Co., the Half Moon Bay Lumber Co. and the Andreini Bros. corporation yard.

During the council discussion that followed, Councilman Cecil J. Marmont, who seconded the motion to approve the changes, added a comment or two of his own.

"I would agree with the need for enabling legislation allowing us to regulate nonconforming uses," Marmont declared. "But I don't want to put another law on the books that won't or can't be enforced."

"We certainly don't want to lose any businesses, but nonconforming uses must be moved," he added.

Councilman Lawrence E. Alleman then moved passage of the introduction of the changes and the matter carried over Cardoni's emphatic "no," with Councilman Albert Adrevo absent due to illness.

Walker reminded the council that the vote was to introduce the zoning changes and a map of the changes and that the council will have adequate time for review before final passage.

Legislators List Holdings

State Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, and Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, both representing areas of San Mateo, reported scant holdings and wealth but Assemblyman Louis Papan, D-Daly City, reported extensive investments in disclosures by legislators recently.

In a summary of investments, property and income reported by members of the Senate under the 1974 Political Reform Act, Gregorio listed a partnership interest in PLG Properties, including apartment leasing and management as his own investment of less than $10,000.

Gregorio listed equity in property valued between $10,000 and $100,000 at San Mateo as his only other holding.

Arnett was even briefer. He listed no investments. He listed a holding of property valued at between $10,000 and $100,000 at Shingler Springs.

Papan listed a number of interests. He held of stock in the International Spaghetti Factory restaurant as being of value between $10,000 and $100,000.

In the under $10,000 range, Papan listed: Pacific Gas and Electric Co., bonds; Carter Wallace (drugs), stock; United Nuclear Corp. (manufacturer of nuclear fuel) bonds; United Financial Corp. of California, stock; Universal Cycles Steel Corp., stock; Sun Tide Corp., (minerals), bonds; Multiple Listing Service of San Francisco (real estate listing service) bonds; First Charter (financial), stock; Norton Simon Inc., stock; Papan Real Estate and Insurance, real estate and insurance broker, owner.

Papan listed his property holdings as including: equity in two pieces of property in Willows valued each between $10,000 and $100,000; equity in two parcels of land in Daly City, each of value between

$10,000 and $100,000. His income includes five personal and real estate loans from banks and savings and loans, each between $10,000 and $100,000.

Crocker Hills Unit Sets Sunday Meeting

The Crocker Hills Neighborhood Committee will hold a burglary prevention meeting at the Daly City Lincoln Park Clubhouse, Sunday, Feb. 29 at 2 p.m.

Representatives of CAPTURE, Daly City police Lt. Tom Culley and Chief of Police David Hansen are scheduled to attend the meeting and instruct people on what to do to prevent burglaries.

Mrs. Charlotte Repetto, a housewife in the area, said the neighborhood has been hit with a rash of burglaries and armed robberies in recent weeks and the meeting is intended to aid people in being prepared for such incidents.

President of the newly formed group, Harold Calder, has been robbed three times in recent weeks, according to Mrs. Repetto.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

PUBLIC NOTICE

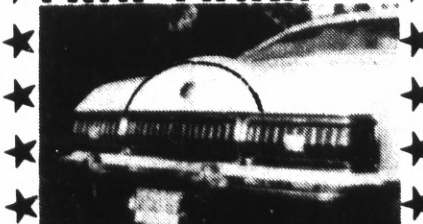

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the County of San Mateo will receive sealed bids for INTERIOR ALTERATIONS FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY CENTRAL MUNICIPAL COURTS BUILDING, 800 NORTH HUMBOLDT STREET, SAN MATEO, CALIFORNIA (Project No. A023-0031017).
2. Each bid shall be in accordance with drawings, specifications and contract documents prepared therefor now on file with the Director of Building Construction and General Services, County Office Building, 590 Hamilton Street, Redwood City, California.
3. Drawings, specifications and contract documents may be examined and copies obtained at the office of the Director of Building Construction & General Services, 590 Hamilton Street, Redwood City, California, upon deposit of $10.00 for said documents, which deposit will be forfeited if the Contractor fails to return the drawings and specifications in good condition within ten (10) days of the bid opening date.
4. Bidders are responsible to see that they obtain a complete set of plans, specifications and contract documents covering the work upon which they submit a bid.
5. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished and bound in the specifications and in accordance with regulations, as set forth in the General Conditions, and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond for ten percent (10%) of the bid as noted in said General Conditions.
6. Bids shall be sealed and filed with the Director of Building Construction & General Services, County Office Building, 590 Hamilton Street, Redwood City, California, on or before the 16th day of March, 1976, at 2:00 P.M. and will be opened on or about 2:00 P.M. of that day. The Director of Building Construction & General Services reserves the right to reject any and all bids, alternate bids or unit prices and/or waive any irregularities in any bid received.
7. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.
8. WAGE RATES: The Board of Supervisors has determined and has published the rates of prevailing wages in the County of San Mateo, in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform the contract. Said prevailing rates are set forth on listing, copies of which are set forth in the specifications for the work in the office of the Director of Building Construction & General Services. Crafts and rate per hour for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform this contract are listed under Wage Rates. Instructions to Bidders.
9. The prevailing rates so determined are based on 8 hour day, 40 hour week, except as otherwise noted. Existing agreements between the Building Trades and the Construction Industry groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.
10. It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor, and upon any subcontractors under him, to pay not less than the said specific rates to all laborers, workmen or mechanics employed by them in the execution of this contract.
11. A Bond will be required for the faithful performance of the contract in an amount of not less than One Hundred Percent (100%) of the amount of the bid, and a bond will be required to guarantee the payment of wages for services engaged, and all bids contract for materials used in the performance of the contract in an amount of not less than One Hundred Percent (100%) of the Bid.
